What Made It Topple Many Pow-Wow Doctors. Two Slogans. The Sloppy Season.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

WALL STREET wants to know what made the top heavy stock market topple over just when it did. Two things fixed the date of what was soon to happen, anyhow. The violent drop in Canadian Marconi made geese realize that stocks can go both ways, faster down than up. And call money at 12 per cent was the finishing touch. Usury cannot keep fools from gambling, but it can ruin them neatly, at a convenient time.

MANY believed that 12 per cent money, caused by the speculation craze, meant 12 per cent for a whole year, not realizing that over a few days or weeks such an interest rate makes little difference. Some of the strong men will step in, collect bargains at the right time, and be praised for "preventing a panic."

IN Pennsylvania "Pow-Wow doctors," vestigial remainder of witchcraft days, prey on the superstitious. They cure warts by reciting verses from the Bible, or rubbing a piece of fat on the warts and burying the fat in the ground. They treat cancer and other diseases by muttering meaningless words.

THE law can stop this gradually, for it says no doctor must talk or practice nonsense unless he has a regular license. The law cannot reach, unfortunately, the great army of "pow-wow doctors" in the field of politics and statesmanship. They will go on "pow-wowing" to the end of time—and get paid for it.

THE New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, having shaken out the widows, orphans and bona fide investors that owned the road once, is now making money and displaying efficiency.

IT has invented a slogan for employes that do the real work. This is how it goes: "Employes will please be long on service and short on alibis." Employes are also told that every worker should be a salesman, trying to build up the road's business.

ALL employes should do their best, half-hearted work helps no man. But the railroad might reply to that slogan with another: "Officers of the road will please be long on high wages and short on excuses for low pay." When railroads are increasing their business, with increased rates, they should remember their workers and "do unto others, etc."

CHRISTMAS is near and the sloppy sentimental season is here. Uncle Sam loves everybody, wants to get into a league of nations, a world court, a peace pact, or something or other. Anything to snuggle up and admit that we are lonely.

WE should study Mussolini. He lives in Europe and knows the people. He also wants peace, but not at any price. In fact, he says: "We are very cautious about granting our friendship to anyone who has not given us necessary guarantees in exchange."

THIS country is like a lost poodle jumping into anybody's lap. What sort of "guarantees" has Europe given us? It calls our country "Uncle Shylock" because we ask payment of part of ten billions lent in war. And it arranges secret naval agreements, leaving us out. At what exact moment, since 1776, did this country become unable to look after itself?

CANADA, almost as big as Europe, bigger than the United States on this continent, concentrates attention on the common man. Farmers are looked after. There is "adult education" for men anxious to make up for lost time. And the Canadian wheat pool is a great and successful marketing plan.

SOME of Canada's ideas would be called paternalism, even half way Bolshevism, here. This country is so busy looking after the exceptional man, the big fellow at the top, that little attention is left over for the common man. But government will get around to him eventually—if he wakes up and insists on it.

POSTMASTER GENERAL NEW'S report shows a postoffice deficit of $33,363,148. The average American spent for postage $5.11, total receipts, $693,632,921. The important news is postoffice airplane development, for which Postmaster General New deserves public thanks. The new 5-cent rate on air letters has increased the service enormously. The so-called "postoffice loss" means nothing. Whether the people pay that money to the postoffice for stamps or pay it in taxes makes no difference.

CHICAGO Chamber of Commerce has devoted three days to the question of aircraft manufacture, while Chicago offered an admirable airship exposition, including new models. The El Paso, Tex., Chamber of Commerce sent a flying machine to Mexico to congratulate the new president on his inauguration, expressing friendship and a desire to do business.

BEFORE long, airplanes will be as important to travel and commerce as railroads are now and as stage coaches once were. Chambers of commerce that are wise will interest themselves in aviation, in which, by the way, the Chamber of Commerce of Seattle specializes more intensely than any other chamber in the country.

AMERICAN owners of "concessions in Colombia" are indignant because native labor, rebelling, destroys property and menaces life. Native labor should not do that, but it has a griev-

RULER AT CRISIS IN ILLNESS

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—England this evening was waiting with tense anxiety for further official bulletins concerning the progress of King George.

Fleet street, the great Metropolitan newspaper center and indeed the whole of the public have been reluctantly forced to the conclusion that the next two or three days will be critical ones for His Majesty.

Three weeks of grievous illness have so undermined the king's recuperative power and so severely taxed his heart that his life undoubtedly is in danger. This does not mean that an eventuality must necessarily be expected, but it does mean that it is distinctly possible.

BULLETINS BRIEF

The official bulletins from Buckingham palace have not given the public much information upon which to base an accurate opinion regarding the king's condition. However, use of the word "anxiety" in today's bulletin was interpreted as a distinct warning that a grave condition existed. The royal physician, it is felt, would never employ such phraseology except in an emergency.

Whether the King's physicians have real hopes of His Majesty's recovery is not known. In accordance with custom they are restricting their views to themselves, those immediately connected with the royal family and the government. Even the officials at Buckingham Palace today were reluctant to discuss any phase of the situation.

QUEEN STAYS IN

Queen Mary did not leave the palace this afternoon, much to the disappointment of a crowd eager to show its sympathy with Her Majesty, but Princess Mary drove out in an automobile and received salutes from the gathering.

Princess Victoria, sister of King George, called at Buckingham palace at 4 p. m. She was immediately taken to the apartments of the Queen.

Officialdom at Buckingham palace watched closely the progress of

Hastings Succeeds Du Pont as Senator

DOVER, Del., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Gov. Robinson today appointed Daniel O. Hastings, now judge of the Municipal Court in Wilmington, to be United States Senator to succeed T. Coleman Du Pont, who resigned last week.

Judge Hastings, a Republican, is a native of Maryland, having been born in Somerset County, March 5, 1874. He was a delegate to the Republican national convention at Kansas City last June. The new Senator is married and has a family.

Girl Plans Ocean Commercial Flight

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Miss Mildred Johnson, Philadelphia aviation enthusiast, arrived aboard the Hamburg today from Germany, where she had been making arrangements for an east-to-west commercial trans-Atlantic flight.

Miss Johnson, who plans to make the flight with a Rohrbach Company pilot named Steindorff, said the crossing might be attempted next month. She will return to Germany next week.

REVIVING VICTIMS IN PITTSBURGH HOSPITAL

After first aid measures in the street, victims of natural gas in Stupakoff Laboratories, 6627 Hamilton avenue, today were rushed to Pittsburgh Hospital. Here, W. M. Layton and James Keenan, gas company employes, revive W. Gallagher on the table and L. P. Culp, Mine Safety Appliances Company man, works over Luke Virdier on the floor.

FOUR EAST END WORKMEN GASSED

Overcome by gas, four men were carried from the Stupakoff Laboratories, 6627 Hamilton avenue, this morning.

Three rescue teams worked over the men for 15 minutes and then sent them to Pittsburgh hospital.

The victims are Luke Virdier, Negro, 54, of 6617 Frankstown avenue; Joseph Schultz, 43, of 6384 Penn avenue; William Gallagher, 20, of 469 Durango way, and Jerome Ebel, 19, of 7831 Kelly street.

Gallagher and Ebel later were discharged from the hospital.

TWO STILL IN HOSPITAL

Schultz and Virdier regained consciousness, but were detained for further treatment.

A fifth man, Gerald Levey, of 5303 Beeler street, was slightly affected by the fumes.

Virdier left the second floor laboratory and entered the office where he complained to Levey that he was ill.

He collapsed as Schultz entered, likewise complaining of sickness.

Levey, feeling himself being overcome, dashed to the street and summoned help.

Levey's call for help was answered by Martin Spillman, 21, of 2562 Fifth avenue, working on a nearby building.

They, with Vincent Lambert, 18, of Blackadore avenue, carried out the victims.

Gallagher and Ebel were found on the second floor unconscious.

Police from the Frankstown station, firemen from Engine Company No. 29 and employes of the Mine Safety Appliance Company administered first aid to the five men.

Virdier, Schultz, Gallagher and Ebel were taken to the hospital. Levey was able to resume his work.

According to Levey the men were overcome by natural gas fumes.

Policemen Catch Porcupine After Escape in N. S.

Patrolmen Gottlieb Schindel and Thomas Muletich were the heroes of a porcupine chase in Ober Park, Federal and Ohio streets, this morning.

The animal escaped as it was being transferred to a cage in the animal educational exhibit in the park, in connection with the Christmas observance of the North Side Chamber of Commerce.

While a throng looked on the two patrolmen, armed with a blanket borrowed from a passing motorist, approached the animal cautiously. When "Porky" was looking the other way they tossed the blanket over it to nullify the effect of its long spikes, then carried it carefully to its cage.

Deer, bear, opossums and smaller animals were placed on exhibition today.

SLEW TEACHER, SAYS BOY, 15

SHERIDAN, Mich., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Jimmy Deakin, 15, son of the janitor of the school in which Miss Flossie Carter taught here, confessed today, state police announced, that he killed Miss Carter, whose body was found yesterday in her car on an abandoned road near here. She was beaten to death.

Lee Bracey, 19-year-old Olivet College freshman, held in connection with the slaying, was released. Bracey had been keeping company with the young woman.

Capt. Fred Armstrong of the state police said Deakin told him he killed Mis Carter with a rock because of a grudge he had against her.

The slaying, according to the boy's story, took place near a lake on the outskirts of Sheridan and the rock with which the school teacher's head was crushed, was thrown into the water.

A statement of details of the slaying and the "grudge" was being taken this afternoon at Stanton. Deakin had helped his father, John Deakin, in janitor work in the school.

Chain Store Looted In Penn Avenue

Groceries and confections valued at $50 were stolen from the P. H. Butler chain store at 3801 Penn avenue, it was discovered today. A rear door had been jimmied by the thieves, who carted the groceries off in a truck, according to H. V. Alexander, of 3420 Ward street, manager, who discovered the burglary when he opened the store this morning.

M'GLONE, DOG CLUB CHIEF, SLUGGED

Mystery surrounds the attack upon W. H. McGlone, president of the Pittsburgh Collie Club, who was beaten by two men and left lying in a semi-conscious state in Bower Hill road, about a mile from Woodville, last night. County detectives are investigating.

The victim, a clerk employed by the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, told the detectives that late yesterday afternoon a "Mr. Shaupt" asked him to examine a dog "Shaupt" intended to purchase from a Carnegie resident. The man, a stranger, called at the McGlone home, 1122 Milan avenue, Brookline, and the pair started for Carnegie.

Driving in Bower Hill road, McGlone's companion stopped his car near a parked machine. A man of husky build leaped from the parked car and grabbed McGlone by the throat, the victim said. Beaten almost unconscious, McGlone was then thrown from the automobile.

Walking half a mile, the victim was picked up by a motorist and taken home.

MINISTERS PRESS N.S. TRIALS

Presbyterian ministers of Pittsburgh today urged that United States Attorney John D. Meyer act immediately to reindict the 46 persons acquitted in United States Court in the first trials in what the government alleged was a gigantic liquor conspiracy.

A delegation was named to interview Meyer from the Presbyterian Ministerial Association of Pittsburgh. A similar movement was begun before Methodist ministers at their weekly meeting, but the resolution offered was tabled for a week.

SHELTON HEADS MOVE

The Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, at the Presbyterian clergymen's weekly meeting, offered a resolution which called upon Meyer to reindict the acquitted 46 as soon as it legally could be done. The resolution pointed out that Federal Judge R. M. Gibson had found there had been evidence of law violations, although not as charged in the indictment.

The resolution commended Meyer for the work already done by his staff, but voiced the sentiment of the association that the findings of Judge Gibson could not be lightly passed over.

The delegation instructed to present the resolution to Meyer and receive his answer was composed of the Rev. C. F. Irwin, of the First Presbyterian Church, Wilmerding; H. N. Eagleson, of the Hawthorne Presbyterian Church, Crafton, and the Rev. George Glunt, of the Oakland Presbyterian Church.

ONE-MAN CAR IN COLLISION

Coincident with another crash of a one-man car today, Representative George F. Howe, of Clairton, announced that he will introduce in the Legislature a bill prohibiting the operation of cars of that type on grades of 2 per cent or higher. The bill will be presented early in the legislative session opening in January, he said.

Fifty passengers were shaken up and eight were thrown to the floor when the one-man Carson street car, crashed into a truck in front of 101 Carson street at noon. The car was operated by S. Monaco, of 2011 Owendale avenue, and the truck was driven by Eugene Roxby, 815 Lacock street, who was backing out of the J. Kenny Transfer company garage. Dr. Albert J. Guerinot, passenger on the car, attended a woman who fainted. J. R. Davis, 613 Eureka street, reported he and other passengers were knocked down.

A bill requiring a crew of two men on all street cars introduced at the last session of the legislature by George A. Hricko, Lackawanna county, died in the committee on electric railways after passing second reading.

Roomers Wreck House, Avers Landlady

"They upset the furniture, tore a sink from the wall, wrecked a cupboard and tore down plaster," testified Mrs. Pearl Swineheart, who conducts a rooming house at 1307 Boyle street, in Morals Court today, against J. C. Gaylord, a roomer, and James M. Cochenour, of McKees Rocks. They came home intoxicated last night, she said. They were fined $10 each on a disorderly conduct charge by Magistrate A. D. Brandon.

ON CELTIC

MICHAEL M'DONNOUGH

MARK M'DONNOUGH

When the liner Celtic went aground in Queenstown harbor, these two Pittsburghers were aboard her. They left their home, 226 Robinson street, December 1, to visit their mother, Mary McDonnough, in Carrhoe, County Galway. It was Mark's first trip since they came to this country 14 years ago, but not Michael's. He had crossed the ocean as a member of the A. E. F. Both were taken safely to Queenstown.

PAN-AMERICAN PARLEY MOVES TO HALT WAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Swinging into action immediately after it convened, the Pan-American conference on conciliation and arbitration today adopted a resolution pledging co-operation in any move toward amicable solution of the Paraguayan-Bolivian border dispute.

The resolution was sponsored by Ambassador Ferrara, of Cuba, and Dr. Victor Maurtua, delegate from Peru, and its adoption was the first act of the conference after it had been welcomed by President Coolidge and had elected Secretary Kellogg as its chairman.

COMMITTEE NAMED

The two authors of the resolution and Manuel Foster, of Chile, Ambassador Gurgel do Amoral, of Brazil, and Charles Evans Hughes, of the American delegation, were appointed a committee to examine the controversy and to co-operate with whatever agencies are engaged in endeavoring to reconcile the two countries.

The move of the Cuban and Peruvian delegates to help find a solution of the border dispute came to light even as the representatives of 20 American republics gathered in the Pan-American Union Building for the opening session. Their petition seeking the support of the delegates was in circulation when President Coolidge delivered his ad-

VOYAGERS ALL SAFE; LAND IN ERIN

COBH, Ireland, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The White Star Liner Celtic, which left New York on December 1 with 253 passengers, ran on the rocks off Roches Point at the entrance of the harbor early today and at low tide was held fast in 15 feet of water, with the possibility that she might break up if she did not get off on the next tide.

Part of the crew landed this afternoon, the master and officers remaining aboard to supervise efforts to refloat her as soon as the tide was high.

All passengers previously had been landed from the liner which at 5:30 tonight remained firmly fixed on a ledge of rocks where she was stranded early this morning.

DESTRUCTION FEARED

At that hour no effort had been made to refloat the ship and the possibility of saving the vessel was said to be very doubtful.

Fifteen feet of water were said to be in her engine rooms.

Officials of the White Star line and insurance officials will visit the ship tomorrow.

The liner, which stove a hole directly under her engine room, was lying with a severe list to port. She struck the rocks near the lighthouse at Roches Point at 5:40 a. m. She was within a short distance of where trans-Atlantic vessels usually cast anchor. A gale had been in progress off the coast and the pilot had been unable to go aboard.

It was reported she had 12 feet of water in some compartments.

CREW STAYS ABOARD

The Dutch tugs Gelizee and Moryeeock tried to take the liner off the rocks, but were unsuccessful and preparations were made to make another effort to get her off the next tide. For this reason members of the crew remained aboard the liner after the passengers had been renfoved.

The passenger list of the Celtic comprised 87 cabin passengers, 47 tourist-class passengers and 119 third-class passengers.

The grounding of the great ship took place in miserable weather conditions, with a cold rain and biting wind adding to the discomfort of the removal of the passengers through the harbor to the Cobh docks.

NO WARNING

B. Sheehan, a saloon passenger who was on deck, said rocks loomed suddenly out of the mist. They appeared so close it seemed to him he could have stretched out his hand and touched them.

"Three yards more to the westward and there would have been no chance of saving the Celtic," he declared. "The waves were dashing wildly at times and a furious wind was accompanied by a heavy rain."

A Press Association dispatch from Liverpool said it was understood that 27 survivors of the Ves-

5 Local Persons On Celtic When She Struck

At least five residents of Western Pennsylvania, two of them from Pittsburgh, were aboard the White Star liner Celtic today when the big vessel struck rocks in Queenstown harbor.

They are Michael and Mark McDonnough, of 226 Robinson street, Oakland; M. Clifton Cooke, of Fairchance; Mrs. Emma Culpan, of Johnsonburg, and William L. Wallace, of Dubois.

The McDonnoughs were bound to County Galway, Ireland, to visit their mother. Cooke, Wallace and Mrs. Culpan had booked passage for Liverpool.

CITY GRAFT INQUIRY ENDS TODAY; WALSH TESTIFIES

The county grand jury vice probe will end today. Unless new leads develop in late testimony, District Attornel S. H. Gardner said he would conclude calling witnesses today and the remainder of the week would be devoted to drawing up a presentment to Judge J. B. Drew.

The first witness was Inspector John J. McArdle, of the South Side police district, questioned relative to his real estate holdings. The bank accounts of Police Lieuts. John J. Lynch, Philip Marmo and George Hook were gone into while those officers were before the jury. Several citizens had been summoned to conclude the inquiry into booze and lottery activities.

Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh was a volunteer witness today; his third appearance. He took records before the grand jury to DECEPTION ISLAND (Antarctica), Dec. 9.—(Sunday.)—(Via whaler Hektoria and Kup, San Francisco Examiner wireless station.)—The monoplane Los Angeles of this expedition caused a fatal accident in a scouting flight over Snow Island today.

The victim, we are glad to report, was only a bird—ossifraga gigantica by name, an enormous specimen of the albatross family. These birds are known locally as "Nellies."

The mishap was not entirely a joke, for it might easily have been fatal for us. Pilot Joseph Crossan and I were taking advantage of a short interval between snow storms

PITTSBURGH BUSINESS GIRLS STUDY IN "CHARM SCHOOL"

FRIEDA HEMPEL

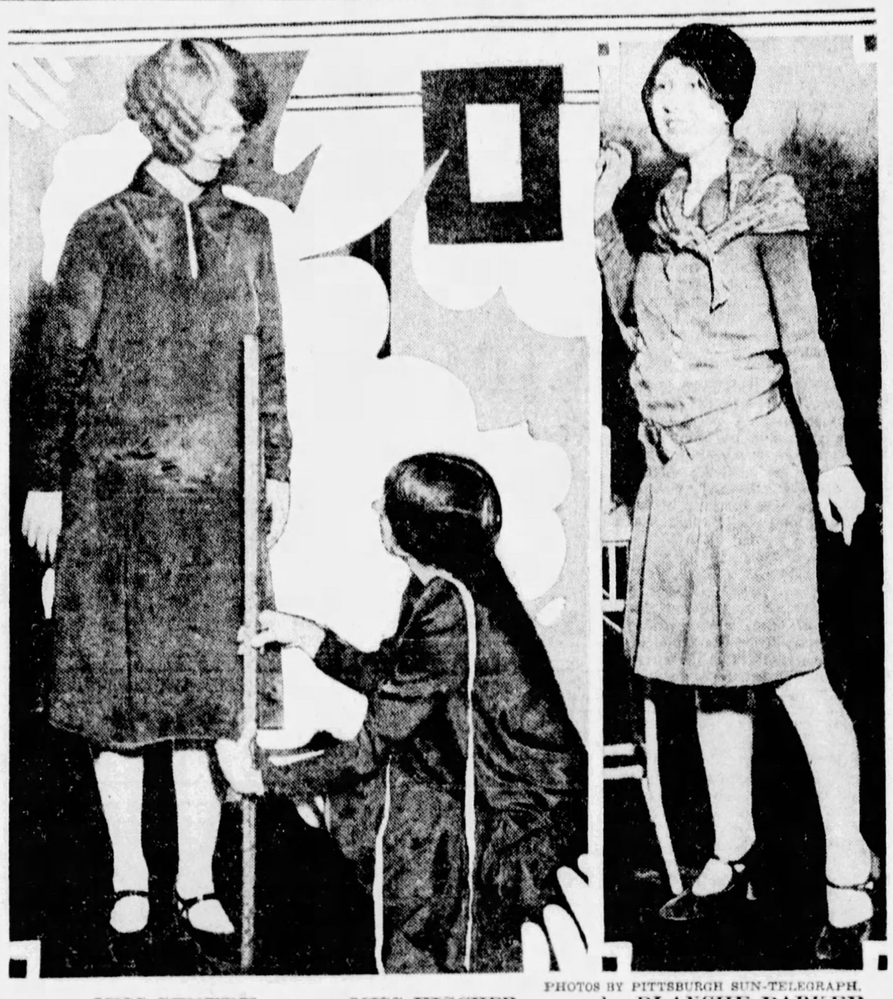
Frieda Hempel, Metropolitan Opera prima donna, believes American business girls generally lack poise and suggests "schools of charm" as a remedy.

EMILY KAELIN CHRISTINE WAUCHTER

The central branch of the Young Women's Christian Association in Pittsburgh maintains just such a school. Two voice-posture-and-speech-pupils are shown here in an "employment" interview.

MISS CHISNELL MISS NEWELL

In a social dancing class, business girls are not only taught dancing but how to walk gracefully. Miss Corabelle Chisnell and Miss Mildred Newell here learn the intricacies of the tango.



MISS GENTRY MISS FISCHER

In dressmaking classes, business girls are not taught how to make their skirts shorter but just long enough to be dignified and attractive. Miss Charlotte Gentry is telling Miss Minnie Fischer that 10 inches from the foot is "just short enough."

tris disaster were aboard the Celtic when it ran ashore.

Michael Johnston, lighthouse keeper at Roches Point, said if the weather became bad, the Celtic was certain to be a total wreck.

"Only the fact that the Celtic was going slow averted a terrible disaster," Johnston said. "How she got on the rocks is a mystery."

He said there was a bad storm last night but the weather was moderating.

"I am afraid the vessel is badly damaged," he continued. "Unless she can be lightened enormously, it will be impossible to get her off."

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The Celtic's passengers are expected to arrive here tonight and will cross the Irish Channel by special steamer, reaching Liverpool tomorrow morning.

Unfilled Steel Tonnage Drops

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Unfilled steel tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation on November 30, was 3,673,000 tons, a decrease of 78,030 tons from October 31. On September 30 unfilled tonnage was 3,695,503; on August 31, 3,624,042, and 3,454,444 tons on November 30, 1927.

O'Neil, Playwright, Ill From Overwork

SHANGHAI, Dec. 10.—Eugene O'Neill, American dramatist, is confined to his bed here, but his recovery is expected within a week. His physician, Alexander Renner, an Austrian nerve specialist, says the playwright is suffering from a slight nervous breakdown and bronchitis brought on by overwork and the strain of travel.

UNGER INDICTED IN ROTHSTEIN DRUG PROBE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—The first indictment by the Federal grand jury in connection with the alleged international drug ring believed by the authorities to be involved in the affairs of the mysteriously slain Arnold Rothstein, was handed down today and named Joseph Unger, alias Klein, who is in custody in Buffalo, N. Y.

Unger was picked off a train in Buffalo and held in $100,000 bail following the seizure of trunks in New York City containing narcotics valued at $2,000,000.

It was expected that Unger would be brought to New York from Buffalo and that other indictments would follow.

MRS. BOYD CALLED

The indictment of Unger followed the appearance before the grand jury of Mrs. June Boyd, who was arrested in Chicago with a trunkfull of drugs. Mrs. Boyd, a sip of a girl, blonde, with big blue eyes, testified before the grand jury room for 40 minutes.

Unger was indicted on four counts:

1. Aiding and abetting illegal importation of drugs.
2. Concealment of narcotics.
3. Illegal possession and transportation of narcotics.
4. Conspiracy.

Besides Unger and Mrs. Boyd, two other persons are in custody.

$2,000,000 IN SEIZURE

They are Mrs. Ethel Meyers, accused of working with Unger, and "Crying Sammy" Lowe, admitted friend of Rothstein, and alleged veteran of the narcotic traffic.

Drugs valued at more than $2,000,000 were found in Unger's trunks, federal agents reported.

The first definite linking up of the Rothstein case with the federal investigation of dope smuggling came today when the federal grand jury passed a resolution requesting District Attorney Joab Banton to make available all papers necessary in the Rothstein case and appointing a committee of three to inspect the papers.

Married Women Workers Doubled

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Twice as many married women work in the United States now as in 1890, not because they want to, but because they have to, is the conclusion reached in the annual report of Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the Women's Bureau. Census figures show that of all the married women in the country one in 11 worked in 1920, as compared with one in 22 in 1890.

ance. Colombian law says "regular employes must be insured against accident by their employers." American concessionnaires employ much transient labor and say, "We can't afford to insure a man that works only a week or two." Native labor says quite naturally, "We can't afford to have a hand cut off without compensation on a short job."

CALIFORNIA could solve that problem. In California you insure all your workers, paying insurance based on the amount of your payroll at the end of a year. Thus transient employes cost no more for insurance than regular employes.

GENTLEMEN with stores of liquor put away in cellars arrange trap guns so that burglars will get bullets in place of whisky. That's an old idea. The new idea comes from Houston, Tex. A prohibition agent descending into the secret cave of a distiller entered a gas trap and died. His cries of warning saved the lives of three companions who hastily retired. explain testimony given at a former hearing.

Inspector McArdle after testifying, explained that he had been called to tell about the purchase of a farm in Findlay township. He said he had bought the place to keep his children off the street in summer, making an initial payment of $500. Lieut. George Hook explained unusual bank deposits in his name resulted from the receipt of insurance following the death of his wife a year ago.

A letter of "Albert Smith, Jr., Brighton road," sent to the district attorney, giving names and addresses of persons selling booze in the Brighton road district, did not help the investigators. Acting on Smith's information, the persons named were summoned and denied the charges. Smith was sought. He could not be found at the address given, and a registered letter sent to him was returned by the postoffice department.

Three witnesses who testified at the afternoon session are Constable Harry Neithrown, of Glendale; H. D. Fraffions, 2201 Duquesne avenue, McKeesport, and C. W. Potts, of Etna.

GIRL AT MOVIE WITH FEARN, POLICE HEAR

By WILLIAM PFARR,
Staff Correspondent.

CANTON, O., Dec. 10.—It is now four days since Vernard E. Fearn, coal operator, was murdered on the front porch of his home and the attractive young brunette who fired six bullets into his body is still at large.

To spur the search, Stark County Commissioners met today and voted a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the girl slayer's arrest.

There was one development today when a mystery girl entered into the abundant theories that attend the investigation.

SEEN AT MOVIE

Fearn, it was learned, "went out," with this girl. He was seen in a motion picture theater with her a few months ago, Sheriff Edward Gibson said.

That girl cannot be found.

The sheriff and his aides are going over the town again today to search for her.

DANCERS TO BE QUIZZED

Sheriff Gibson said he would question four young women today who knew Fearn. The women all danced with him on recent occasions, the sheriff said.

Henry W. Harter, Jr., county prosecutor, left this afternoon for New Castle to interview a business man there, whose name he withheld, in regard to Fearn's history. He hoped study of the murdered man's life might suggest a motive for the crime and thus afford a clue to the slayer's identity.

SHERIFF IN BEAVER FALLS

The sheriff spent Sunday in Beaver Falls, Pa., where he interviewed a prominent coal operator about a mining deal that Fearn and others tried to put through a year ago. The Beaver Falls man told Gibson of ill-feeling created among certain persons toward Fearn when the deal fell through.

Fearn lived a few miles outside the city limits in a sparsely settled section. He owned but one mine—a small one—and had a few men delivering coal for him.

GET PITTSBURGH TIP

Police began a search in Pittsburgh today for the girl who murdered Vernard E. Fearn, Canton coal operator, last Thursday.

Mrs. James Nelson, newsdealer of Lincoln Plan place, near Homestead, furnished the information.

A man purchasing a newspaper in her store told of a young woman alighting from a bus in Canton last Thursday night and inquiring of him the time the first train left for Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Nelson reported the stranger's conversation to Chief John Hunter, of Mifflin township, who relayed the message to county detectives.

Rare White Wolf Bagged; White Doe, Too

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 10.—A white wolf and white doe, rarely seen in Western Pennsylvania, have been bagged this hunting season.

Cliff Craig and son, George, shot the wolf in Madison township, Armstrong county, after the animal had been seen in the rural district. It weighed 86 pounds.

Charles Mechling, of Kittanning, brought the white doe from the Penfield section.

dress of welcome and it met with prompt approval.

Secretary Kellogg announced afterward that the ministers of Paraguay and Bolivia here would become members of the conference committee when their governments shall have so instructed them. The committee arranged to meet late in the day.

MAY GO TO LEAGUE.

LUCANO, Switzerland, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The frontier clash between Paraguayan and Bolivian troops several days ago has created interest in League of Nations circles as it is possible one of these nations may appeal to the League to settle the affair.

Both Paraguay and Bolivia are members of the League, although Bolivia has not been represented at sessions for several years.

U. S. WATCHES

Meanwhile the State Department at Washington is watching with anxiety the tense situation. An irregular triangle of territory between the two countries has long been in dispute and it has been the scene of numerous clashes in the past. American diplomatic officers in South America have been instructed to watch the situation closely and report promptly on developments.

Senor Medenia, minister from Bolivia, today merely confirmed the breaking off of relations between Bolivia and Paraguay and would comment no further, but Dr. Juan V. Ramirez, charge d'affairs and secretary of the Paraguayan legation, expressed the belief that war between the two republics is now inevitable.

Dr. Ramirez was frankly pessimistic in his view of the situation.

"The situation is very bad," he said. "It is now too late for arbitration and armed conflict would appear to be inevitable."

Chicago Hotel Man Granted Divorce

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Ernest L. Byfield, head of the Sherman Hotel, one of the largest in the downtown section, was granted a divorce here today from Mrs. Gladys E. Byfield on charges of desertion. Byfield testified that he was married January 3, 1914, and that in November, 1926, Mrs. Byfield suddenly packed her clothing and departed for Europe with their two children, Ernest, Jr., 13, and Hugh Ward Byfield, 6. Frank Bering, manager of the hotel, substantiated Byfield's testimony.

Cracked Safe Found On Farm Near Hays

A large office safe, blown open and robbed, was found this morning by Steve Sardinis, on the Riley farm, near Hays, county detectives report.

322,000 GLASSES OF "GOOD BEER" SENT DOWN RIVER

Three hundred and twenty-two thousand glasses of "good beer"—more or less—are flowing through the Hazelwood sewers today as the result of the surrender by the Peerless Beverage Company of its government permit to manufacture near-beer. Valued at the average current speakeasy price of 20 cents a glass, the beer thus being disposed of is worth $64,400. In addition, almost as much near-beer is being destroyed.

The Peerless Beverage Company has been operating in the plant of the old Hazelwood Brewing Company at 5011 Lytle street. For reasons not stated, the company, through its president, Thomas V. Sully, today notified the Prohibition Administrator that it was going out of business and surrendered its permit.

The company had on hand in vats and tanks 460 barrels of high-test-beer—that is, beer that had not yet been dealcholized—and 417 barrels of near-beer. Prohibition agents went to the plant to supervise the destruction of the beverage.

WILKINS NEAR CRASH

to fly our seaplane over Snow Island in search of landing fields.

We were about to alight when the bird, one of thousands about the harbor, flew into our path and smashed into the butts on the propellor. The bird weighed 10 or 12 pounds with a wing spread of eight to 10 feet across, and if it had struck the propeller tips or the pilot's windshield, disaster would have been likely.

Under low clouds, without sunshine, it was impossible to judge surface of Snow Island accurately.

Conspicuous near its edges, however, were crevasses many hundred yards long and wide enough to engulf our airplane.

We must examine the island on foot before we can use it for a base.

It is snowing again.

the Prince of Wales as he neared home to take his place at the bedside of the king. Preparations were made to expedite the late stages of the journey and it was learned this afternoon that the destroyer Porth had been placed at his disposal for the trip from Boulogne, France, to the English coast.

PRINCE BOARDS TRAIN

BRINDISI, Italy, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—The Prince of Wales left here for London at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon after thanking the Italian officials for the facilities they had provided to enable him to make more speed.

The British cruiser Enterprise entered the outside harbor at noon and the prince with his luggage in six leather bags was landed by a submarine chaser at 12:30 o'clock.

The prince wore a black check overcoat, light check trousers and low shoes. He looked healthy and welltanned by the African sun and hardly replied to the greetings coming from all around by the authorities. A crowd had gathered despite a downpour of rain.

A force of 100 Italian sailors, one company of infantry and one company of aviators, lined the short route from the ship to the train, but in accordance with the prince's request, no military honors were rendered and the troops merely stood at attention.

The prince entered the private car placed at his disposal by the Italian crown prince and did not appear at the window when the train left at 12:30 p. m., to shoot across Europe for the French channel coast.

BARI, Italy, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales' special train arrived here at 2:15 p. m. and left five minutes later for Ancona.

600 GIRLS HERE MAKE STUDY OF 'CHARM'

"A school of charm. That is the only thing lacking in our modern American system of education to equip women for success in the field of feminine endeavor, a field that has become astonishingly wide."

Mme. Frieda Hempel, beautiful and talented soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, made this suggestion in San Francisco recently without, however, being aware of the fact that such a school of charm actually exists in Pittsburgh.

Elaborating on her suggestion, the prima donna said:

"I don't mean for just those girls in finishing schools, but for business women and those in active life. They should be taught poise, modulation of voice—especially that—and how to talk."

If Mme. Hempel should ever come to Pittsburgh and drop in any evening at the Central branch of the Young Women's Christian Association, she would find some 200 business girls being taught exactly the things she advocates.

DRESSMAKING STUDIED

"Goodness, how many girls have I seen who ruin their appearance by improper knowledge of cosmetics and dress," she wailed.

At the Y. W. C. A., however, the opera singer would have an opportunity to see scores of business girls deftly manipulating thread and needle, yardstick and scissors, learning the art of making neat and modest dresses, sartorial creations that give the modern business girl a dignified, feminine appearance. Miss Vivian Rentz, an instructor in the department of home economics, is the one who has taught hundreds of Pittsburgh business girls just this.

"And their voices have become husky," Mme. Hempel deplores. "You see a beautiful woman, you admire her. And then she opens her mouth to speak—Oh!"

Were the great prima donna to drop in at the classes conducted by Miss Mary Jane Paul in "voice, posture and speech that attract," she would hear stenographers, saleslgirls, cashiers and bookkeepers speak with refinement, poise and the diction of veritable orators. Girls who have attended Miss Paul's classes have learned not to say "Yeah" or "You betcher life" or such other expressions commonly used by untrained business girls.

LEARN TO WALK PROPERLY

In the social dancing classes, conducted by Miss Blanche Parker, business girls are taught how to walk properly in addition to the mastery of the latest dance steps.

"Girls who are poor dancers or those who do not dance at all, are usually poor walkers," Miss Parker said. "To know how to dance gives a girl not only charm in a social way, but corrects her walking posture. A business girl who walks briskly and erect into an office in quest of a job makes a better impression than the girl who steps in slovenly and with an awkward gait."

"Our school of charm for the business girl is an accomplished fact," declared Miss Dorothy Naumann, membership and publicity director. "Right now we have over 600 business girls who are attending our various classes, designed to increase their personal charm and thereby insure their chances for business success. Our registration for the year in these classes has been in excess of 2,000. It is the aim of our organization to improve the business girl's mind, body and soul, make them more fit to gain their own livelihood and prepare them for the home, wifehood and motherhood as well."

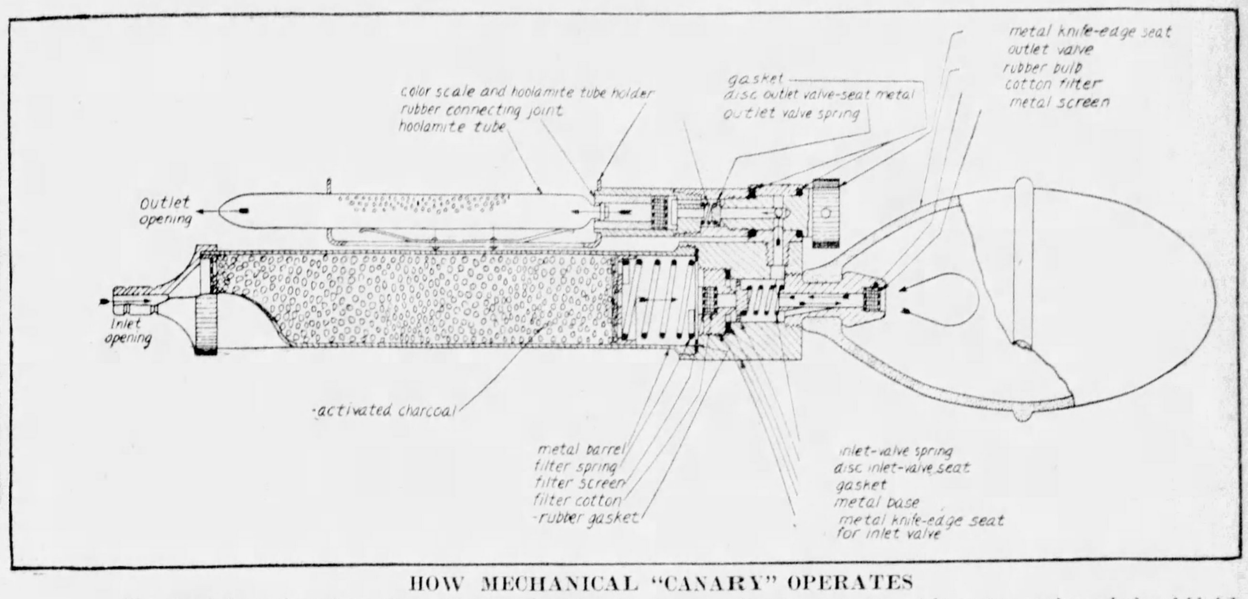
MECHANICAL "CANARY" DISPLACES BIRDS IN COAL MINES

HOW MINERS USED CANARY TO WARN OF GAS

Deadly carbon monoxide gas takes a heavy toll of lives in coal mines and miners for many years have depended upon canary birds to warn them of danger. Here, a group of mine rescuers uses a canary in the United States Bureau of Mines test mine at Bruceton.



HOW MECHANICAL "CANARY" OPERATES

The sketch here shows how simply this "sure-fire" detector operates. Air is drawn into the lower chamber by means of the rubber bulb and expelled through the upper tube. Chemicals cause clear transparent crystals to turn various shades of bluish green, violet, brown, or black when carbon monoxide is present.

GAS DETECTOR TO REPLACE CANARIES

The mechanical canary has arrived!

But it doesn't sing, chirp, hop around in a cage or do any of the things a canary ordinarily is supposed to do—it isn't that kind of canary!

No, this canary takes the place of that delicate little bird which topples off its perch and warns grim, determined men deep down in the bowels of the earth that it its time to leave the carbon-monoxide-infested mine and return to the open air above. Canaries — mechanical or real—are the coal miners' best friends at a time like this.

Because of its delicately formed vital organs, the canary is more quickly affected by carbon monoxide than man, and many a member of this feathery tribe has been sacrificed to save the lives of men.

SCIENCE SAVES BIRDS

Today, however, the mechanical canary is well able to take the place of these fluttering little winged creatures—another achievement of science.

The iodine pentoxide detector, it is called—a double-tube affair with a hand bulb which draws air through chemicals contained in the tubes, and when carbon monoxide is present, the coloring of contents of one of the tubes is changed.

One of the tubes of the detector contains five shades of permanently-colored pumice stone, to correspond to colorations produced when definite amounts of air with various percentages of carbon monoxide are introduced. This provides a scale whereby the percentage of deadly gas may be determined.

GAS CHANGES COLORS

In the other tube, granular pumice stone impregnated with a mixture of iodine pentoxide and fuming sulphuric acid makes up the chemical combination through which the impregnated air is forced. When carbon monoxide is present, the colors change to various shades of bluish green or even violet brown or black, depending upon the amount of carbon monoxide in the atmosphere. The coloration fades rapidly, and the "mechanical canary" may be used over and over again before the chemicals have to be changed.

The detector was recently perfected at the United States Bureau of Mines. It is technically known as the Hoolamite detector, having been given its name in honor of C. R. Hoover and A. B. Lamb, who patented the iodine pentoxide formula while in the chemical warfare service at Washington.

Farmer Disappears After Leaving To Hunt Bear

UNIONTOWN, Dec. 10.—Several hundred persons so far have failed to solve the mystery surrounding the strange disappearance of Hilary Wilburn, a farmer, of Stewart township, who has been missing since Friday morning. Searching parties have failed to find any trace of the farmer, who started out on the trail of a bear seen on his farm.

Friends expressed the belief that he may have fallen down one of the several 35-foot cliffs in the vicinity or that he may have been shot by the accidental discharge of his own gun or that of a hunter. Little hope is entertained of finding him alive.

U. S. MAY ENTER "HEX" QUIZ

YORK, Pa., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Possibility of federal authorities following state and county officials in the drive here against "hex" practitioners, as the result of the witchcraft murder of Nelson D. Rehmeyer, November 27, appears today.

Letters which Mrs. Helen Elker, under sentence in the Gettysburg jail for the murder of her husband, Percy Elker, last July, received from Prof. A. C. Lenhart, "chief science healer," prior to the shooting of her husband may be handed over to the United States postal department, according to District Attorney Amos W. Herrmann.

On March 24, 1922, records in the office of Herb K. Kain, general superintendent of York Society to Protect Children and Aged Persons, show that Prof. Lenhart, then living in the western section of York, was connected in a case similar to the Etker killing when Sallie Jane Heagy shot and killed her husband, Irvin Heagy.

SERIES OPENED BY MACARTNEY

The first of a series of 12 sermons on the truths held everywhere and in all ages by Christian believers was delivered last night in the First Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue, by the Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor. The subject of the sermon last night was "God."

He said: "The Christian does not say 'I think' or 'I know there is a God,' but 'I believe.' To say 'I believe' is the highest expression of the soul of man. The world says it makes no difference what a man believes. But this is contrary to common sense, for 'as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.' It is also contrary to revelation, for Jesus Christ said, 'Preach the gospel unto every creature. Whosoever believeth shall be saved.'"

BIG DONATIONS SAVE PERILED GLORY BARN

The Glory Barn, West Carson street, will not close, at least not for a few days. Approximately $5,000 was raised in two collections at the barn yesterday afternoon and last night, enabling Evangelist John W. Sproul to pay a pressing debt of $5,000 and to keep his head above water for the time being.

The announcement Saturday that the barn would have to close because the followers had not responded as generously with their contributions as had been expected brought out the largest crowd yesterday that has visited the tabernacle. It was estimated that between seven and eight thousand persons were present at the afternoon service and the evening attendance was even greater.

Sproul announced that he must have $5,000 today to satisfy creditors. The evening offering was much larger than usual and, with the afternoon collection, made a total that surprised even the evangelist. Sproul announced that if another $1,000 could be raised, the tabernacle would not have to close right away. Within a short time sufficient funds had been collected to guarantee payment of the debt.

Two sermons were preached yesterday by the Rev. F. F. Bosworth. He plans to return to Chicago today and the sermons this week will be delivered by Mr. Sproul. There will be no service tonight, but every other night this week the evangelist will talk and will conduct healing services at the close of his sermon.

The pension office is given the bulk of the total appropriation—$243,211,000. Of this amount, $221,000,000, an increase of $11,000,000 over this year's appropriation is provided for actual payments and Army and Navy pensioners.

MAN HELD IN PLOT TO LURE GIRLS TO LIFE OF SHAME

A plot, police say, to lure unfortunate girls from hospitals to lives of shame was described by Inspector James N. Hoey in Morals Court today.

Testifying against James Motz, 50, charged with keeping a disorderly house at 4 Boyd street, and with harboring a woman for immoral purposes, Hoey declared that Motz, posing as an uncle of girl patients in the Elizabeth Steel Magee Hospital, had interviewed several and had sought to have them come to his place after their discharge from the hospital.

Motz was held for court by Magistrate A. D. Brandon and Betty Litner, 21, arrested in a raid on Motz' place more than a week ago, was held as a material witness. Two men and a woman were discharged.

After the hearing, Inspector Hoey said complaints had been received by him from social workers and from Charles W. Collins, of the Children's Service Bureau, of a man visiting the Magee Hospital and by the "uncle" ruse obtaining permission to see young women.

AMERICAS WORLD PEACE LEADERS, DECLARES COOLIDGE

INTER-AMERICA ARBITRATION MEETING ON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—The Americas led the world as far back as 1822 in understanding to settle international disputes by peaceful means, when the principles of arbitration and conciliation were practically unknown, President Coolidge told delegates from South and Central American countries, in an address opening the Inter-American Conference on Arbitration and Conciliation here today.

The President spoke in the Pan-American Union Building here.

Declaring that the countries of South America led all the world in their contribution to the cause, President Coolidge pointed to the treaties of 1822 of greater Colombia with Peru and Chile, and with Mexico in 1826, followed by a treaty with Central America in 1825, as forerunners of efforts that many years later were to be made part of a world program for peace, through conciliation and arbitration.

"PRAISEWORTHY RECORD"

"It is a record to excite the pride of all those who love peace and justice," he said.

"It is a mistake to suppose," President Coolidge said, "that it was much easier to adopt conciliation and arbitration on the American continent because of the absence of any outstanding inter-American disputes. The history of this continent discloses the presence of as large a number of difficult and delicate questions as in any other section of the world. The uncertainty of the boundaries of the American states after their successive declarations of independence from Spain and Portugal gave rise to a large number of territorial disputes which belong to the class usually arousing the most deeply-rooted national feeling.

"The fact that most of these have been settled by direct negotiation, conciliation, and arbitration will forever be one of the glories of the Americas as well as a constant reminder that the nations of this continent have dedicated themselves to the ideals of peace."

The President declared that the foundation for the work of the present conference has been laid by the unbroken policy and practice of the American republics.

"It is by adherence to such methods," he said, "that nations as well as men develop a peaceful character."

Slowly but surely modern thought is bringing the different nations of the world to standards corresponding with those of the Americas, he declared.

"Governments are coming to see that it is by no means in derogation of their dignity to submit their differences with each other to the decision of an impartial tribunal," he added.

In the Americas, he said, there are no historic or inbred hatreds.

"As we look across the boundary lines of each other we do not behold any great array of armaments declarative of a hostile intent, but rather the peaceful occupations of people preparing to benefit each other by the mutual exchanges of a benign commerce."

Only Jail Terms Will Dry U. S., Says Judge

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Judge Joseph B David, of the Cook County Superior Court, declared last night that jail for the man who buys liquor and for the man who takes a drink was the only principle on which the Eighteenth Amendment could be enforced.

"The fact is that the Eighteenth Amendment does not function, will not function and is not intended to function," Judge David declared at a meeting of the Nu Beta Epsilon fraternity. "The present situation is one of hypocrisy and chicanery. Those who advocate the law know it is impossible to enforce it. Proper teeth in the law which would bring about enforcement would bring an exclamation of disgust, if not horror, from all parts of the country."

PONTIAC SALES FORCES HEAR OF NEW SIX

Approximately 150 Oakland-Pontiac dealers of the Pittsburgh district met here today in the William Penn Hotel, with executives of the home office at Pontiac, Mich., to hear details on the new Pontiac six for next year. The new machine was described in detail through the aid of lantern slides and talking motion pictures.

The meeting is one of a series of 30 being held throughout the country within a period of 10 days. In that period the factory officials will be brought into direct contact with 5,000 members of dealers' organizations. Heading the factory party here are E. M. Luberk and W. M. Chamberlain.

L. E. Marsh, regional sales manager, and M. E. Zetterholm, district sales manager, assisted the factory party in presenting the program and new product for the coming year. The meeting today started with a luncheon.

Subjects that were covered in the meeting today were the complete presentation of the new Pontiac six, which company exclutives say contains big car features with the prince range of the small six; the extensive newspaper advertising schedule for next year; servicing of new engineering advancements on the machine; discussion of sales records and many other merchandising phases.

USE MOVIETONE

One of the outstanding features of the meetng was the movietone speeches of A. R. Glancy, president, and D. R. Tracy, vice president, in charge of the Oakland Motor Car Company. This is said to be the first time that talking motion pictures have been used in presenting an automobile sales program.

The local meeting marks the near close of a most successful year in the history of the Oakland Motor Car Company, with a record of having sold more than 250,000 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes already this year, as against 195,000 in the entire year of 1927.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area that stretched from north of the lakes to Texas on Saturday morning, moved slowly eastward. This morning it appears in the form of a round high over the southeastern states with much diminished pressure. It caused freezing weather over all the Gulf states, and heavy frost as far south as Tampa.

A low pressure area is developing over Western Texas. It is causing cloudy weather over the Southern Plains states and rain over most of Texas and Oklahoma. Low pressure of marked intensity developed over the far Northwest coast. It is causing cloudy weather over the states west of the Rockies and rain along the immediate coast.

This distribution of pressure is causing a rising temperature condition over most of the country. Over this section the lowest temperature tonight will be about 30 degrees, and it will rise to about 45 Tuesday afternoon.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.8 feet; Dam No. 2, 7.9, and Dam No. 6, 8.9. The dams are up.

TWO TRAPPED IN THEFTS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 10.—J. A. Pearson, 23, and Harold Horr, 20, mill workers, are in the Washington County Jail awaiting a hearing next Wednesday before Alderman John E. Carmichael, on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. The men were arrested at the instance of federal authorities in Pittsburgh at the request of a Pittsburgh mail order house, from which they are alleged to have obtained many thousands of dollars of merchandise over a period of several months.

Pearson and Horr were arrested when a trap was laid for them by Posmaster T. A. Langfitt, of this city, who acted on instructions from local and federal officers. Pearson, it is alleged, called for several packages under different names, and was trailed to his home, where he and Horr were apprehended and where, authorities say, some of the merchandise obtained in an allegedly fraudulent manner was recovered.

Butler's for better groceries

Since March, when Butler Stores first started distributing the milk and cream of the Dairymens Milk Co.

of Pittsburgh

our customers, in addition to getting the richest and purest of milk, have realized

A Saving of $100,000.00

on this one item in a period of only eight months.

Prior to taking over the distribution of the Dairymens Milk Company's product it had been the practice of retail stores to sell milk at 1c over the home-delivered price—a condition known to be unwarranted due to lower delivery cost on store distribution and elimination of losses on bottles and bad accounts as well as large savings in office sales and collection expenses.

Cooperating with the Dairymens Milk Company Butler's were able to change this and sell milk at 2c under the home delivered price instead of 1c over.

A Savings of 3c on each quart

Notwithstanding this decrease in price, the Dairymens Milk Company have been able to pay premiums for high quality milk and maintain a standard of purity in excess of the high standard set by the Pittsburgh Board of Health, whereas Butler's greatly lowered profit per quart has been offset by the vast increase in our milk sales resulting from the larger saving and superior quality.

There is No Healthier Food--

Than Rich, Pure, Pasteurized Milk and none is Richer or Purer than that furnished the Butler Stores by the

OUSTED BIBLE CLASS CALLS DR. HALL

The Rev. Dr. W. W. Hall, Methodist evangelist of Swissvale, will be asked to become pastor of the proposed church organization that will be formed by members of the Callender Bible School, of Wilkinsburg, it was announced yesterday after the class meeting. The Bible school is the outgrowth of the barring of the Callender Bible Class of the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, from the church rooms.

Trouble between the church officials and class members finally resulted in the class being put out of the congregation. The members then formed, with their families, the Callender Bible School.

The school will hold a Christmas party the Friday night before Christmas, when packages of food will be distributed to needy families in the community. The class has decided to form a Provident Society to take up the work of what was known as the Philanthropic Society. The new society will co-operate with churches of every denomination.

During the fight her clothes were torn.

Managing to free herself, Miss Mitchell ran a short distance away and watched the direction taken by Kus in his flight. Summoning her uncle, Patrolman W. C. Tibbit, Miss Mitchell trailed the man to the Newsboys' Home in Ellsworth avenue, where he was arrested.

Thief Shoves Priest Aside and Escapes

Ascending the front steps of the rectory of St. Ann's Polish Church, Homestead, last night, after visiting several friends, the Rev. Stanley Jasinski, pastor of the church, was pushed aside by a strange young man leaving the house. The youth leaped the fence and fled. Six Seconds for Safety

"Suicides who used to blow out the gas—now step on it" says the Pittsburgh Motor Club in its safety campaign to keep the sorrow of death and injury from Pittsburgh homes this Christmas, through the medium of safety "wise cracks," which may be easily remembered, during that important six seconds necessary to prevent an accident. Remember that 25,775 people were killed in this country last year in auto accidents.

Council today was requested to appropriate $10,000 to retain Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State and United States Attorney General, to represent the city before the United States Supreme Court at the final hearing February 9 of the Lake Cargo case.

The case will determine the government's authority to fix freight rates on products manufactured in the Pittsburgh district.

As an alternative to retaining Hughes, the suggestion was made by T. A. Dunn, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce traffic committee, that the city retain Owen J. Roberts, who recently represented the government in the federal oil lease cases.

Dunn advised Council that the Chamber of Commerce would be represented at the hearing by James Francis Burke, counsel for the chamber.

A previous request for the retaining of Hughes or Roberts was submitted to Council a few weeks ago by Wilmer N. Jacoby, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

ASTOUNDING revelations of the wonders radio still holds in store for the audience were given last night by Dr. Lee DeForest in a 15-minute talk over a national network.

"While we might be severely criticized for even attempting further progress in radio, we are still pioneering," Dr. DeForest said. "Broadcasting equipment is very efficient and it does its duty quite capably, yet better days are coming. I look for still continued refinements, although progress will be less spectacular and certainly slower than in the past.

"Television, an experiment today, is certain to be a household fixture tomorrow. Even now we are on the eve of great strides in vision. I am told Dr. Charles Jenkins, of Washington, D. C., has equipment to project television pictures on a large screen, so as to be viewed by audiences. Although the television transmission so far has been confined to subjects of the most simple character, it is quite within the bounds of present technical engineering to predict the broadcasting of sporting and news events with a fair degree of detail in the not distant future.

"LOOKERS-IN" SOON

"But let me hasten to assure you that television, as such broadcasting, in no way threatens our sound broadcasting. Long before it will come television will be a separate and independent development. Persons will be looker-in as well as listeners-in, using separate receivers for both purposes. Eventually the two functions will be combined in a common receiver. I even foresee the possibility of carrying the sight and sound broadcasts on a single wave, by some ingenious system of modulation and demodulation.

"And radio technique must reach out into many fields in its future progress. I expect more marine radio applications of our radio technique. Radio prospecting for mineral and oil deposits, now in its infancy, is certain to take much of the guesswork out of mining and oil drilling. Radio may yet come to serve an important function in diagnosis and treatment, if we are to accept the electrical origin of life.

"Radio progress tends to reach out to still greater achievements. With organized research, rather than chance invention and guesswork to guide us on our way, we are, indeed, living in a marvelous age when we can pass exactly mould our future civilization rather than be the mere puppets of circumstance."

Radio-Peace

DR. LEE DEFOREST

"I foresee the day when inexpensive and efficient short-wave circuits will weave the entire world into a compact and friendly family of nations, keeping in closest touch with one another," Dr. DeForest said last night in a radio address. The time is rapidly approaching, he declared, when messages will be flashed just as they are written, newspapers will be transmitted intact and photographs made in London in the morning will be in American newspapers that evening.

BABE RUTH TONIGHT

Babe Ruth, "King of Swat," and Jan Kiepura, mezzo soprano, are headliners of radio programs scheduled tonight. Ruth will be heard over WCAE at 6:30 o'clock. The concert star is featured on the Jubilee Hour over WJAS at 9:30 o'clock.

Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail, will tell of "The Flying Postman," and William P. McCracken, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, will give a general resume of flying in the United States.

Brahm's "Hungarian Dance No. 2" will feature the Slumber Hour of Music over WJZ and WLW. Other selections include Mierisch's "Elegie," a number from "The Mikado," and the "Norwegian Suite" by Schytte.

Did you ever hear of a five-hour remedy for colds? There is one, and it really does bring you out of it completely. Even if it's grippe, this method works, only it takes longer. It's a simple compound the druggist has in tablets. Pleasant-tasting, but it sure has the "authority!"

Plenty of people with a bad cold in the morning have been rid of it by night; and the secret is Pape's Cold Compound. You'll think it just luck the first time, but it always goes to the spot. Druggists have it for 35c.

AL-14

For Colds

BREAKS A COLD OF ANY DURATION

This is the most effective cold remedy in the world

A Broad Statement, But True

The discovery of AL-14 is hailed as the greatest advance ever made in fighting colds. Large corporations, business executives and physicians are using AL-14 to relieve those suffering from colds. Druggists and physicians are recommending AL-14 for at last they have a preparation for colds that they know will produce prompt results.

If you are really sincere in wanting to cast off that cold, do not hesitate! Ask your druggist—he will tell you of the remarkable results that AL-14 is achieving daily. AL-14 easy and pleasant to take, can be obtained at all reputable drug stores.

FORMULA AL-14 FOR COLDS

BUGS BAER Says

THE Nobel Peace Prize for 1928 will not be awarded this year.

President Coolidge almost got it. In fact, the committee had Cal all measured for a holding halo when Cal ups and orders 15 tough cruisers.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

A man who buys his cruisers in habit-forming quantities is not the man to jingle peace medals.

The municipal prize will not be awarded to Chicago, a town that has achieved the peace that passeth all understanding.

Neither will the individual citation be plastered on the handsomest participant in a Nicaraguan revolution.

Chin Long, the renowned Chinese bandit, almost got a majority of votes. Only one vote got away from Chin Long. And that was because Chin's rifle jammed.

Looking over the roster of belligerent eligibles you can see that logical candidates are scarcer than Zeppelin hangars.

The prize would have been Cal's if it hadn't been for those 15 cruisers.

No man in the world makes a radio program quite so peaceful as Cal.

No dignity can indite a gentler valedictory or hogtie and throw a more docile national budget.

And of all the pilgrims who tagged Plymouth Rock, Cal is the only one who is still on the Mayflower.

The Mayflower was the boat that lost Cal the prize. The committee refused to believe that Mr. Coolidge was ordering 15 more yachts.

So this will be an off-year in the Nobel Peace business. The committee requires a vacation in order to regain its health.

While awarding the 1925 medal, the committee was seriously injured in the struggle.

Not one member of the committee escaped bruises and raps in the 1927 scramble.

And everybody way back in 1900 when the choice lay between Teddy Roosevelt and the Kaiser.

That was the year Teddy called up Wilhelm in reference to the peace prize and offered to fight him for it.

HILL BANDITS STILL FREE

No trace has been found of three Negro bandits who late Saturday night held up two grocery stores in the Hill district and obtained $575.

The store of Harry Langer, at 10 Emmett street, was visited by the robbers, who cowed two women and a boy and looted the cash register of $200. Joe Burkowitz and Louis Bergerman, clerks, were robbed of money and valuables amounting to $175.

An hour later the same bandits, with drawn guns, scooped up $250 from the cash till of the Kroger store, at 648 Herron avenue, after forcing Samuel Osgood, manager, into a rear room. Pedestrians who saw the robbers drive away in a stolen automobile from the Kroger store, furnished police with good descriptions of them.

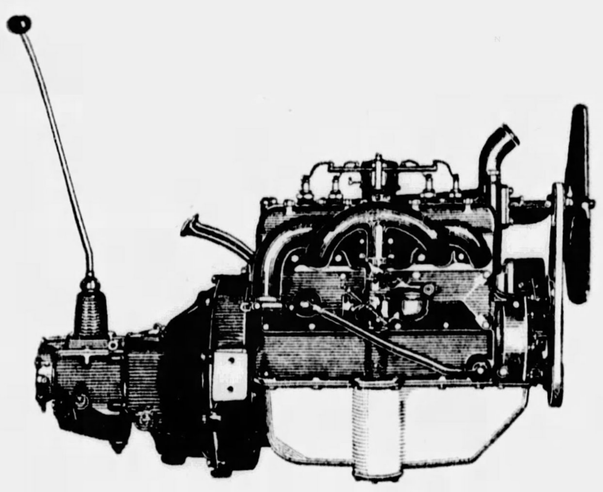
THE NEW FORD HAS A REMARKABLE ENGINE

¶ Value of simplicity of design shown daily in outstanding smoothness, acceleration, speed, power, reliability and economy. Low-priced car should not be complicated.



THE engine of the new Ford represents a new development in modern automobile engineering. It is unique in design and performance, giving unusual smoothness, acceleration, speed and power without sacrifice of reliability and economy.

Ford engineering has found the way to include every essential feature of good performance without the necessity of a high speed, complicated motor.

The design of the cylinder head is just one factor in this performance. Others are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, the carefully planned large valve diameter, the chrome silicon alloy valves, the aluminum pistons, the statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, and the simplicity of the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems.

Engine mounting reduces vibration

Of special importance is the manner in which engine vibration is absorbed before it reaches the chassis of the car, thereby preventing unpleasant vibration periods.

This is done in the new Ford through the introduction of a flexible front end support that is both simple and practical—a truly remarkable improvement in engine mounting developed after many months of testing and experimenting.

Quality of materials and careful workmanship also have a great deal to do with the continuously good performance of the new Ford.

In the new Ford, for instance, the diameter of the piston pin is held within three ten-thousandths (.0003) of an inch. An equally close limit is followed in the hole into which the piston pin is fitted.

The weight of the aluminum alloy pistons is set at 17⅞ ounces. No piston is permitted to come under this weight nor exceed it by more than 2 grams.

In the piston assemblies, consisting of piston, connecting rod, pin and spring retainer, the four assemblies in each motor must match in weight within a limit of 3½ grams. Every piston assembly must meet the weight of the other assemblies in the set within approximately ⅛ of an ounce. Main and connecting rod bearings on crankshaft are held true to within three ten-thousandths (.0003) of an inch.

Unusual accuracy of manufacturing methods

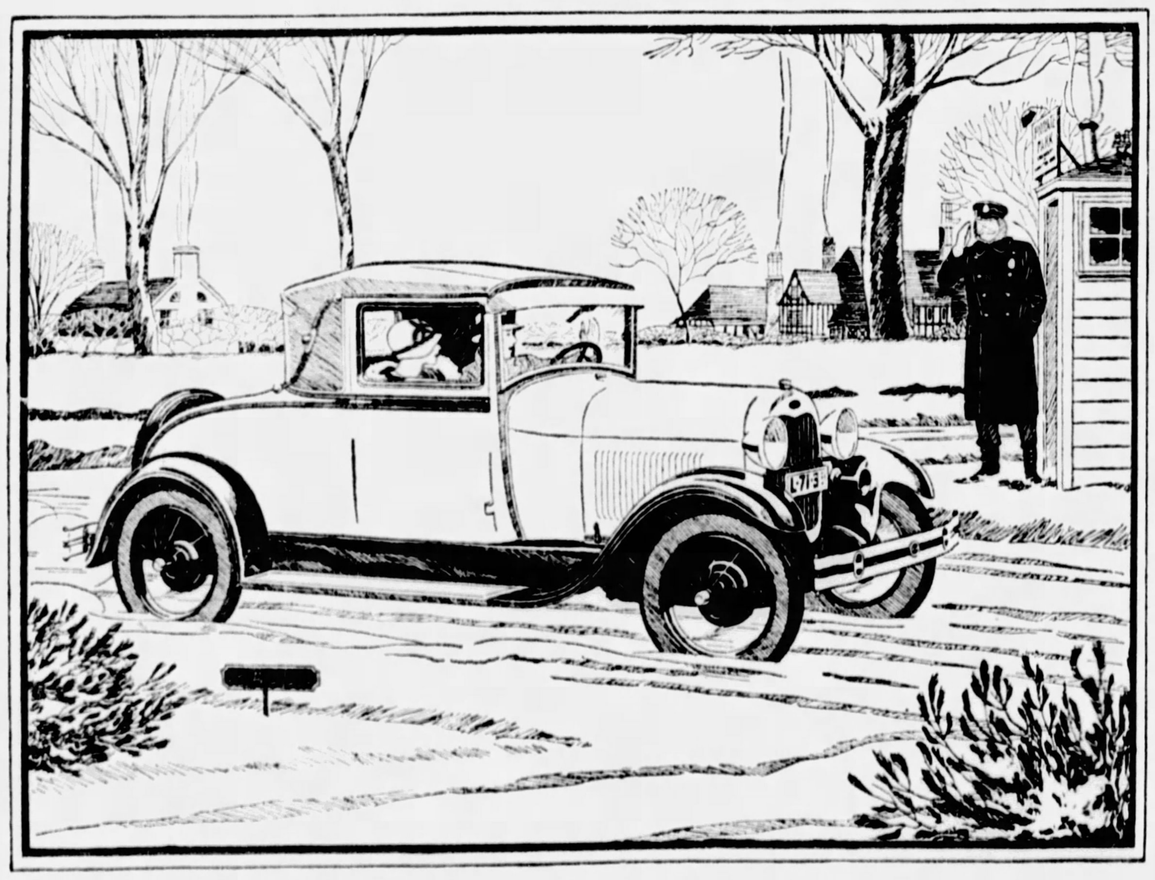
It is of course almost impossible to conceive of measurements as close as these. They are achieved only through the finest precision gages in the hands of expert workmen. The master blocks by which these gages are set are accurate to the almost incredible limit of a millionth of an inch.

All of this care and accuracy is an indication of the fundamental thoroughness of Ford manufacturing methods If a part should be made accurate to a limit of .0003 of an inch, it is made .0003 of an inch. Margin of profit is made secondary to service.

Deep-seated therefore is the quality of the new Ford You can see but a part of it with your eyes Beneath the hood are countless invisible values Summed up, they count for more than any one spectacular feature.

Because of the value that is in it, the new Ford is more than just a new automobile It is a part of the life, the progress and the prosperity of the country Our policy has always been to see that you get the very best materials —the most careful workmanship—the soundest design that can be built into a low-priced automobile.

Today, more than ever, the new Ford is the fulfillment of that ideal.



The new Ford is distinguished by the trim, graceful simplicity of its lines and the beauty of its colors. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in automobile designing. Shown here is the new Sport Coupe—one of the most popular of the new Ford cars. Wide, comfortable rumble seat is included as standard equipment.

CHURCH MARKS ITS 140TH BIRTHDAY

"There are more people than ever living in the downtown district and the need for churches in this section is even greater than before," the Rev. Dr. G. E. Brenneman, pastor of the Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal Church said last night at services in the church. The evening service was the second in the observance of the one hundred and fortieth birthday of the church.

Dr. Brenneman gave a brief history of the church, telling how it came to be located in the downtown district among the hotels, apartments and lodging places. These are the homes of thousands and the churches should be near to them, the pastor said.

Dr. William H. McMaster, president of Mt. Union College, and the Rev. William Millward, the church's missionary in China, were the speakers. A special church flag was dedicated. Services will be held each night this week.

LOST EXPLORER TO BE HONORED

Roald Amundsen, lost in his attempt to aid the disastrous Nobile polar expedition, will be honored Friday night at a memorial service in the theater of arts at Carnegie Institute of Technology, held under the auspices of the Norwegian Society of Pittsburgh. Curtis, director of Allegheny Observatory of the university, will represent the two educational institutions co-operating with the society.

Others who will appear are Dr. Andrew N. Cleven, professor of history, and Miss Froken Bergit Nissen, of the department of higher research of the University of Pittsburgh, and Frederic Schaefer, personal friend of the lost explorer.

The Ring Dance

Last night the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association presented the Max Shapiro String Quartet in their regular Chamber Music Series.

The program was well balanced, and particularly cheerful in the second half. The Brahms quartet demands that the players sacrifice their individualities less than in any other similar work; it is obscure enough to begin with, so that the closely interwoven themes must be more sharply marked than ever. Lack of this very clearness of design and faulty intonation detracted much of interest from the work.

Griffes' Indian music is very entertaining and not overworked. Mr. Shapiro's players always give this type of music very sympathetic readings. Reiser's scherzo may look well in the score, but it is unpleasant music, and in the hearing lacks the smartness of much modern burlesque.

The quartet from the opening note of the Pixy Ring were again in their element, and were really appreciated by a very attentive audience.

BILLY SUNDAY HERE FOR DAY

Two evangelistic rallies will be held in Pittsburgh next Monday by Billy Sunday, who made hundreds "hit the trail" when he conducted a revival in Oakland during the winter of 1912 and 1913. He will speak at two meetings in the First Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue, the first to be held at noon and the other in the evening. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor of the church, arranged for the services.

Mrs. E. P. Dailey Dies, Mother of Detective

Mrs. Elizabeth Perkins Dailey, 73, mother of City Detective Guy M. Dailey, died yesterday in her home, 763 Anaheim street, after a long illness. She also was mother of the late John Dailey, former director of Public Safety and a city councilman. She was born in Wales and came to this country when a girl. She was the widow of John Dailey, who until his death in 1919, was a deputy sheriff of Allegheny county.

Drug Store Robbed Of Cash and Goods

Cigarets and candy valued at $300 and $15 in cash were stolen from the Elizabeth Pharmacy, 5041 Second avenue, by robbers who entered the place early yesterday. The rear door of Barker's Dance Hall, adjoining the drug store, was broken open, and by going through the hall the thieves got to the back door of the pharmacy, which they also forced.

Ambridge Man Dies Of Motor Injuries

Struck by an automobile near his home Saturday, Joseph Aber, 42, of 277 Merchant street, Ambridge, suffered injuries which caused his death last night in the Sewickley Valley Hospital, according to the coroner's report. W. T. Porter, of 1223 Merchant street, Ambridge, was arrested.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

NEW DEAL PENDING TO PLACE BEBE DANIELS TO WORK IN TALKING FILMS

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.

UNLESS something happens to put a crimp into present negotiations, it looks very much as though Bebe Daniels will satisfy her desire to make audible photoplays in the near future. Bebe and Pathe are working out a deal which will bring her under the time-honored banner of that organization. And it is expected that "the papers" will be signed in a day or two.

A transaction involving the services of this film favorite is one of no small importance. Had our Bebe remained with Paramount her weekly pay envelope would have contained $5,000. And as she is one of the few whose popularity has not been dimmed by time, it is logical to suppose that the Pathe arrangement will bring the star equally important money. A generation ago, when this was called "a man's world," wonder what comment would have been made regarding a slip of a girl earning a quarter million a year? Now it's almost an every-daye occurence.

No Parts Come For German Boy

ROBERT CASTLE, the German boy, has been receiving the run-around so frequently given imported players. When they get them, the producing organizations don't seem to know quite what to do with them. Robert made a very favorable impression at first, and was to be put in immediately as Clara Bow's hero. Since then he has been mentioned for a number of roles. But they haven't materialized. Now he seems all set to make his bow as an artist in Emil Jannings' new picture. It may be an aid to him to work with his fellow countryman.

It seems that Dorothy Arzner, the girl director, replaced Mal St. Clair when she was assigned to direct Clara Bow in "The Wild Party" picture. And they are saying that the event marks the parting of the ways for Mal and Paramount. Time was when St. Clair was the most brilliant director in Hollywood. There are hosts who believe that he still is. When he tries.

June Collyer's worries are over for some time to come. She has been assigned a new picture in which Charles Morton will be her leading man. This means that her contract with Fox will be renewed. So let's give the little girl from Gotham the big hand that Hollywood didn't give Tex Guinan.

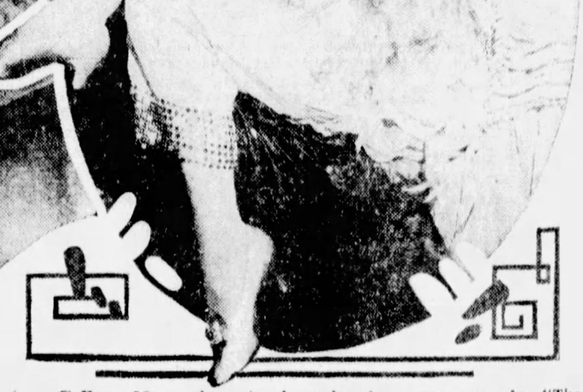
First it was "The Love Song," then "The Heart Song," then "Masquerade," and now the title of D. W. Griffith's new one is "Lady of the Pavements." That's what has happened to "La Paiva!" Wonder what Donn Byrne would have said, and what Director George Fitzmaurice did say, when they altered the title of his picture from "The Changeling" to "His Captive Woman."

Tunis in Town; Now Is With Belasco

TUNIS DEAN is in town! We bring out the old exclamation point to emphasize the appearance in his old familiar haunts of a former Pittsburgh boy who has made good in the big city. Not only in the big city, but with biggest figure in the dramatic side of the American theater. When old-time actors wanted to be boastful, which was only while they were awake, they casually referred to the time "when I was with Booth." An equal claim to distinction now would be "when I was with Belasco." Tunis Dean is with David Belasco now and has been for a number of years. It is as Belasco emissary that he is in Pittsburgh arranging for the coming of a Belasco production, "The Bachelor Father." Time was when Mr. Dean was the nattiest dresser. Now we believe he has one rival in Mayor Jimmy Walker, of New York.

Bebe Daniels, who will next be seen in "What a Night," made for Paramount, is through with that company and is said to be considering a Pathe contract, rumored to call for $5,000 a week—"a," not "per."

Edwin Carewe received a check of $5,000 because Leroy Mason, fiance of his daughter, Rita Carewe, didn't want any family "tie-up" to indicate his success in movies. He bought his contract with Carewe and is now a "free lance."



Colleen Moore is not rehearsing for appearance in "The Command to Love," pajamas notwithstanding. She wears 'em in "Synthetic Sin," which is the title of the picture on which she now is working.

LA ARGENTINA TO DANCE TUESDAY

Tuesday night, in the Nixon, the Spanish dancer, La Argentina, will appear. She comes for one night only.

David Belasco will present "The Bachelor Father" in the Nixon, beginning Monday night, December 17. It comes with the original New York cast intact. June Walker, C. Aubrey Smith and Geoffrey Kerr are the featured players.

Arthur Hammerstein's new musical play, "Polly," starring June and Harry K. Morton, comes to the Alvin the week of December 17. "Polly" has been taken from the successful comedy of a few years back, "Polly With a Past."

The attraction in the Pitt next week will be Central Europe's celebrated actor, Alexander Moissi, in "Redemption," presented by Morris Gest, producer of "The Miracle." The engagement is for one week only, with matinees Thursday and Saturday.

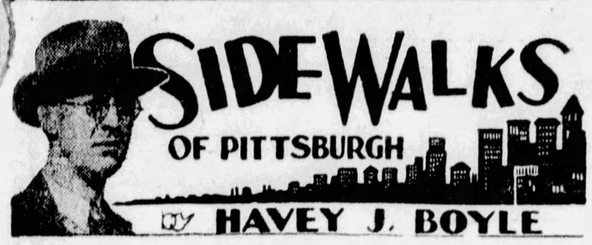
Borough and School Board Clash Over Sewer Cost

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

MONDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1928



DEAR MR. BOYLE: Little Janice is only 6 years old and if you could come out and have dinner with us Sunday (bring the family) I'm sure you would agree she is the most precocious child it has ever been your good or bad fortune to come across.

Last night after I had tucked her under those pink covers with elephant designs all over them and went downstairs to resume a bridge game with a few guests, imagine my embarrassment when she cried out: "Mother, where in the hell's the Sun-Tele? I haven't read Mr. Boyle's column yet." Well, you know, Mr. Boyle, your delightful and charming column is to Janice what a little toy or Castoria would be to another her age, so I took up to her the second section after she had promised to switch off the light upon finishing your Wednesday masterpiece.

Then, no sooner had I bid my next hand when loud cries of fear or some kindred feeling came from Janice's bedroom. Daddy and I rushed up immediately, leaving our guests behind, to find Janice convulsed in sobs and afraid to go to sleep. For minutes we were unable to check those heart-breaking tears of that sweet child. She was frightened, we could see that, just as if some boogey-man had suddenly appeared before her.

After what seemed like an hour, but which must have been only five minutes, Janice's tears subsided and when we asked her what was the trouble, she pointed to a certain section of your column where you were telling about the fellow who got hit, and here is what I read: "He rolled over and blood gushed as sperm oil from a whale." Why, Mr. Boyle, that was almost enough to scare even me to death. Is it any wonder that our child was afraid to go to sleep? However, after we gave her a couple of shots of gin and a chaser of Large she nestled in her blankets and shortly after we heard her snoring contentedly. But, Mr. Boyle, with the high price of Large, and so much poison gin going around, we can't do that very often. So, Mr. Boyle, you should watch what you write in your column, for you can never tell how many children read it before going to bed.

Once, several years ago, in writing about a cheese factory, Irvin Cobb remarked that the smell would make a visiting skunk-hunter homesick. Your whale gushing-blood-sperm rivals that, but then you ain't no Irvin Cobb.

For my sake and for little Janice's, please let us have nice peaceful bedtime stories from your gifted pen and if you must have your blood can't it be blue? Signed: Mrs. Eve Adam.

We are sorry if we are the cause of getting little Janice a bun-on. And while we can't promise to make the world safe for all the precocious children who read and cry we can offer what we believe a valuable suggestion. Why not get some bottled beer in for little Janice. Accustomed to liquor and gin she will at first probably rebel, but a few nights of forcing her to go to bed without a drink of anything will soon bring her around. Beer is not so expensive as whisky and is far safer than gin. We believe, too, that Janice's little red nose will disappear (as to color) with the turnover from whisky to beer.

BUT in case you have reached that terrible point, Mrs. Adam, where your cupboard is not dissimilar to Mrs. Hubbard's in regard to beer we are willing today to help out with the following:

"So Peter Rabbit took his little hatchet and struck Mr. Bear right across the forehead. Oh, said Mr. Bear as the blood ran out, Ha, ha, said Peter Rabbit, then stabbing Mr. Bear with a large knife."

Little Janice should keep cold sober after this playful little bedtime story of the rabbit and the bear.

GIRL HURT BY TAXI SUES

Dorothy Moore, 7 Brushton avenue, who suffered concussion of the brain when she was knocked from an automobile following a collision between the car in which she was riding and a taxicab of the Pittsburgh Transportation Company has sued the latter for $40,000 damages. It is alleged in her bill of particulars filed in Common Pleas Court by her counsel, E. W. Langfitt, that she was with a friend, Beatrice Renscher, when the accident occurred at Beatty street and Penn avenue, the plaintiff suffering injuries about her back, legs and shoulders.

E. Liberty Chamber Gets New Quarters

Within a week the offices of the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce, now at 6008 Broad street, will be moved to larger quarters on the second floor of 5921 Penn avenue, near Whitfield street. Besides a commodious office for general work there will be in the new quarters a large private office for meetings of the board of governors, special committees, etc. Manager A. Patrick Flood will be in the latter office.

HENRY BUNDER

Irene Ravitch, managing editor, and J. L. Solomon, sporting editor, Pitt Weekly, look with pride on the most recent issue of the Carnegie Tech Tartan and Henry Bunder, junior editor, Tartan, looks with equal pride on the weekly. Pitt students edited the Tech paper and vice versa!

PITT AND TECH EXCHANGE EDITORS

The Christmas spirit of good-will has invaded the campuses of the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech. And it was illustrated in a complete exchange of journalistic staffs.

The Pitt Weekly made its most recent appearance after having been written and edited by Carnegie Tech students, while the Carnegie Tartan was issued only after the toil of Pitt writers and editors. Both are weekly papers, gotten out for undergraduates of the respective schools.

To the casual observer, both papers seemed as usual. For instead of adapting the style and makeup of the papers to their individual or collective tastes, the journalistic students followed the regular style of the paper, and had to write strange headlines and stories adapted to the peculiar differences of the papers. And all papers have some differences.

The majority of the young writers on both staffs hope some day to crash the metropolitan dailies. But Miss Irene Ravitch, managing editor of the Pitt Weekly, aspires to be a real "sob-sister." She wants to be another Nellie Bly. And maybe she will.

WILKINSBURG SUES FOR $10,800

The Borough of Wilkinsburg and the school district of Wilkinsburg are at loggerheads over the payment of the cost of building a sewer, to complete and inclose Nine Mile Run.

This was revealed when suit was filed in Common Pleas Court by the borough against the school district for the payment of $10,800 with interest and costs, the amount assessed against the school board by a board of viewers last February.

The school district has failed to make payment and the borough council instructed the borough solicitor, R. G. Bostwick, to take action to collect it. The school district owns a lot in the First Ward, at Laketon road and Sadie way. It was necessary to construct and inclose part of Nine Mile Run between Laketon road and Turner street and the school district's share of the cost was assessed against it.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.

Everybody is picking an all-American team. Here is mine: Edison, Ford, Hoover, Rockefeller, Jr., Lindbergh.

They will have to play basketball, as there is only five. But you let that bunch act as a board of directors and run this whole country, take the whole thing out of politics, in ten years we wouldn't have a cent of debt, and would move Thanksgiving Day up to where we now hold elections.

Then we would have a real cause for giving thanks.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

PIRATE BOSSES OUT FOR TRADES

WITH Rabbit Maranville and Hank Gowdy going back to the Braves to join Johnny Evers, who is to be associated with President Emil Fuchs in directing the team, the Boston National League Club next season will suggest something on the order of a home-coming assemblage.

Rabbit Maranville

For the trio thus reunited formed the backbone of the most sensational pennant-winning club in the history of the major leagues. Maranville and Evers were the regular shortstop and second baseman, respectively, and Gowdy was the first-string catcher on the famous outfit that George Stallings piloted to the National League flag and the world championship back in 1914 after the most remarkable climb on record.

As late as July 19 the Braves were in last place, with only 35 games won against 53 lost for a percentage of .449, but from that date to the finish the Braves lost only 16 games while winning 59, a gait of .787, and wound up in front with a margin of $11\frac{1}{2}$ games over the second-place Giants. Then they topped off that unparalleled feat by defeating the Athletics four times in a row in the world series, the first time the classic was ever decided in the minimum number of contests.

THOUGH the consistently fine pitching of Bill James, Dick Rudolph and George Tyler was considered the main factor in the Braves' great uphill fight, those hurlers themselves always insisted that their success was due largely to the brilliant work of Maranville and Evers around the keystone. While here as coach of the Braves two years ago, Rudolph said in discussing Boston's 1914 season: "Maranville and Evers saved numerous games for us. No greater combination has ever performed around second base. Many a time I saw what looked like a real basehit shoot past me in the box, only to find, upon looking around, that the Rabbit and Johnny were turning it into a double play."

Gowdy, who is to hold down a coach's job in the Hub next year, also was an important cog in the 1914 machine, not only by reason of his steady catching ant clever handling of the pitchers, but also because of the punch that his big bat gave to the team. In the world serits, in particular, Hank was a shining light on the offense. He hung up a batting average of .545, which stood as the individual world series record of all time until Babe Ruth cracked it by turning in a mark of .625 this year.

NONE of the other members of that club remains in the big show. Les Mann, recently released by the Giants, was the last of them to pass out.

The pitchers used by Stallings during 1914, in addition to James, Rudolph and George Tyler, were Luque, Perdue, Hess, Strand, Cocreham, Crutcher, Davis, Hughes and Cottrell; the catchers assisting Gowdy were Whaling and Fred Tyler; the infielders, besides Maranville and Evers, were Schmidt, Deal, Smith, Dugey, Craft and William and John Martin, and the outfielders were Connolly, Moran, Whitted, Catcher, Griffith, Gilbert, Murray and Collins.

George Stallings

MARANVILLE traveled a circuitous route to get back to his first major league love. Coming to Pittsburgh after the 1920 season in exchange for Billy Southworth, Walter Barbare, Fred Nicholson and $15,000 in cash, he went from here to Chicago, thence to Brooklyn, to Rochester, to St. Louis, and now to Boston. Aside from the help he will give the Braves as a player, if he keeps up the good work he did for the Cardinals this year, he ought to be quite a drawing card in the Hub, where a big increase in business is expected next year, with Sunday ball being played. George Harper, the outfielder sold to the Boston club with Maranville by St. Louis, would have dropped out of the majors last August had the Pittsburgh club not intervened. The Card bosses tried to send him to the minors, but the Pirate management needed an outfielder at the time and refused to waive on him. St. Louis was thus forced to keep him, and the development worked out very favorably for the Redbirds, as the victory over the Giants in the first game of a double-header on September 20, due to Harper's three home runs, counted heavily in the winning of the pennant.

NOT to be outdone by Boston in pulling the old-home stuff, Manager John McGraw, of the Giants, has called in a couple of his former players to aid him in the 1929 campaign. Arthur Devlin, coach and scout for the Braves in recent season, has been taken on as a New York scout, and Bert Niehoff, manager of Atlanta in the Southern Association for the last five years, has been signed as a coach to reinforce Ray Schalk and Hans Lobert.

Both Devlin and Niehoff were Giants in the bygone. Devlin, one of the greatest third sackers of all time, worked at the hot corner for McGraw from 1904 to 1911, inclusive. Niehoff's stay in a New York uniform was brief. The Cardinals got him from the Phillies in April, 1918, for Mule Watson, and on May 18 sold him to the Giants, but on May 31 he suffered a broken leg and the mishap ended his career as a McGrawite.

CHICK DAVIES, able basketball coach at Duquesne University, has his eyes set on the Tristate Conference floor trophy, which was wrested from the grasp of the Dukes by Westminster last season. He is preparing for the 1928-29 campaign with practically the same caste he directed a year ago, save that Jerry Reich, captain of that outfit, has passed along.

Chick Davies

The Dukes have been either right at the top of the Tristate basketball heap or very close thereto for the last seven years. Bill Campbell, now at Homestead High School, installed the present system which has brought such success to the Dukes, and Davies carried it forward, changing it only to conform with his own original and certainly worth-while ideas.

SINCE Davies became coach of the Duke quintet, the Bluffites have taken into camp some fives of unquestioned strength. West Virginia, Penn State, College of the City of New York, Catholic University and Bucknell have been numbered among Duquesne's victims. When the Bluff boys went to Gotham last season and downed Nat Holman's College of the City of New York five, the famous Nat declared after the game that he would stay on the coaching job until he defeated Davies. To that end he told the athletic director at his school to schedule the Dukes for the 1928-29 season above all other quintets. Accordingly, a game has been arranged for February 9 in New York. Holman said that Duquesne's team was the best he had seen on a college floor in ten years, aside from Pitt's great five of last season. Nat saw the Panthers wallop West Point.

WITH President Barney Dreyfuss, Manager Donie Bush and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss all on the scene, the Pittsburgh club will figure prominently in this week's major-loop baseball doings, which begin today with a special meeting of the National League in New York, to be followed by the regular annual session of the senior organization there tomorrow, the yearly sitting of the American League in Chicago at the same time, and a joint confab of the two leagues in the Windy City on Thursday.

The fans have their ears to the ground in the hope that the big sessions will produce some news of real interest in the line of player trades or deals, instead of only the usual not overly thrilling bulletins that the pennants for the preceding season have been officially

HEIDELBERG TOPS DUNLEVY IN NATIONAL

By TOM BIRKS

HEIDELBERG successfully climbed the first obstacle in its efforts to regain the National amateur championship in meeting Dunlevy in the first round at Dunlevy and winning an abbreviated game by the score of 1 goal to 0. We say abbreviated because the game never finished, player Crompton, taking exception to one of Referee Bob Brown's decisions and socking the whistle-tooter on the chin—the game ended with 10 minutes to go.

The other games of the day found Thoms Run stopping Glendale by a 1 goal to 0 score. Primrose swamped Cecil, 3 goals to 1; Curry had little difficulty sending Mather back home with a 4 goals to 0 defeat. These games were in the West Penn junior cup, while in the Monongahela Valley League Sunnyside and Monongahela played a 2-2 tie.

The game at Dunlevy was, as expected, quite a torrid affair. Whenever Heidelberg and Dunlevy meet, it is anything but a tea party and it seems the pent-up feelings of Crompton was taken on in the person of the referee, who is one of the quietest and unassuming persons in the world.

There was a wonderful crowd on the side lines when the teams took the field. The clubs made few chances and in the early part of the game, Heidelberg looked great, Berky Jones and Villani especially showing to advantage.

DUNLEVY DANGEROUS

Dunlevy was dangerous at times, but Grilli had an off day and the little inside left possibly missed more chances in this game than in his whole career.

Heidelberg, showing a great defense, kept the ball in the Dunlevy territory until, from a corner kick, Buff Donnelli caught the ball on his knee and twisted the sphere into the net. That was the only score and the interval came with the Green and Gold eleven sporting that narrow margin of advantage.

The second half found Dunlevy starting to press hard, but Villani was kicking well. Buff Donnelli was trying to get in a shot, but Sickles kept pretty close to the Duquesne crack. In this half Johnny McCosky gave one of the greatest exhibitions of football seen in Dunlevy in years. His passes to Barrafoldi were superb and Heidelberg should have scored again.

With 10 minutes to go on a close play, Dunlevy appealed for a corner kick. Referee Brown, however, ruled a goal kick, and it was on this play that Crompton struck Brown without warning. And that punch will probably end Crompton's soccer playing days.

GAME ENDS WITH FIGHT

With Brown hors de combat, the game finished, Heidelberg winning by the score stated. It was the greatest crowd of the season that watched, and while it lasted it was the best played battle seen this fall.

Grandy, Sickles and Murphy were good for the home club, but Grilli, being off form, stopped the home front line from functioning. Berky Jones was great for Heidelberg. The former Olympic crack, with Villani and McCosky, were the outstanding players on the field. It was Heidelberg's first game in quest of the crown that the Cleveland Magyars lifted last fall, and it showed that the Green and Gold are just as strong again this season. They should come near to bringing to Pittsburgh its second national amateur championship. The lineup:

Heidelberg—1.		Dunlevy—0.
G. Fagan	G	Benick
J. Fagan	R.B	Grandy
Villani	L.B	Murphy
Mangus	R.H	Dolphi

PANTHERS INVADE WEST

By JESS CARVER.

PITT goes West again this week, there to open the 1928 intercollegiate basketball campaign with four sorties against rugged mid-western opponents. Beginning on Thursday night when Butler College is met at Indianapolis, the Golden Panthers will play four games in five nights.

Every one of the opponents to be played by Pitt on this trip are laying in wait for Pitt. Last year, Doc Carlson's great five went through the Big Ten in a pre-season trip like a hot poker through butter, bumping off Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern and Iowa on successive nights, dealing Big Ten basketball superiority a healthy wallop.

JERRY WUNDERLICH

Only one of those four victims of last year will have an opportunity to revenge itself on Pitt this week, Northwestern will tackle the locals Friday night at Evanston. Saturday, Wisconsin, the outfit that looks as likely Big Ten champs for this year, will oppose Pitt at Madison. The invasion will be concluded Monday with a game against Ohio State at Columbus.

FOUR VETERANS BACK

Four of the members of this year's Pitt squad were main cogs in the Panther triumphs last year. Capt. Wunderlich, Hyatt, Zeyfuss and Lester Cohen made the '27 trip. Sykes Reed, Stash Wrobleski and Red McMahan will be missing when the Panthers shove off Wednesday night.

Pitt's starting lineup will remain in doubt until game time Thursday night. Hyatt, Zehfus and Capt. Wunderlich are certain to be in the—but the makeup of the rest of the team is somewhat in doubt. Eddie Baker has been going well in practice and may jump center. Little Willie Arture looms as a possible guard choice and Charley Arthurs may go at center. Les Cohen, whose improvement over his play of last year, has been great, will be hard to keep on the bench.

The most likely starting combination appears to be as follows:

Hyatt	Forward
Zehfuss	Forward
Cohen	Center
Wunderlich	Guard
Arture or Baker	Guard

The Pitt reserve material never was stronger or more plentiful than this season. Players of the caliber of Moritz, Milt Cohen, Rube Anderson, Sandberg, Ferraro, Aiclo, Peffer, Patton and Montgomery would be welcome additions to most any varsity squad. It would be possible for Coach Carlson to form two varsity fives either of which would win plenty of ball games.

While the Panthers are in the Middle West, where the corn is found both in the shock and in bottles, Carnegie Tech and Duquesne are continuing preparation for their own campaigns. The Dukes open their season long before Tech, meeting Ohio Northern here on December 21. This game will be the first college encounter of the year in Pittsburgh, though Pitt will inaugurate the season at the Stadium by clashing with Dartmouth a night later. Tech will be away from home for the first six games on the card, stepping off against Waynesburg at Waynesburg, on January 4.

Tech is hoping to make amends for the sorry showing last year, when the Tartans staggered through a season without winning a ball game by getting at least a 50-50 break. Coach Irwin has the dependable Harvey White around which to build his team. The two Flanagan boys are eligible for varsity competition this year. Bond and Brown are both back, as is Crum, who played some good basketball last season.

Duquesne stock will take a decided slump should it occur that Ganzy Benedict decides to give up the court game this year. Rumor has it that Ganzy is not particular about playing this winter, and should he fail to come out, the Dukes will need to develop men for two positions instead of one. With Benedict out, Chick Davies will have Capt. Rosenberg, Ed Bosman, Joe Vernon and Brud Stephens for a nucleus. Pete Collodi, a veteran reserve player, and Sylopone, a freshman candidate, will be groomed for Ganzy's job if he retires.

Tracey has been one of the most consistent performers on the Miele-Franchina roster and is expected to play an important part in keeping the Uptowners in the running for the league title.

AMERICANS TOP BRUINS, 2-1

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The New York Americans did a good turn for their local rivals, the Rangers, last night by downing Boston, contenders for the leadership in the American group of the National Hockey League, by a 2 to 1 score. The victory puts the Americans on even terms with the Canadiens and Toronto for third place in the International group.

COUGARS-RANGERS TIE

DETROIT, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The Detroit Cougars and the New York Rangers fought through three periods and an overtime here last night to determine the leadership of the American division of the National Professional Hockey League and at the end of the game their standings were unchanged, with the teams tied for top position and the score 2 and 2.

Robinson Denies He's to Be Ousted

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Wilbert Robinson, president-manager of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club, in response to reports in the New York Evening Post that he will be relieved of his duties as president, retorted that "There is nothing to it. I don't intend to pay any attention to it, and I am going to continue along with the club until my time is up."

Robinson, who has been here visiting his daughter, Mrs. Frank Gunther, over the week-end, said that he would attend the National League meeting in New York today and would then declare his intention to fight any report to oust him as president of the club.

Ten Intersectional Games in '29

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Ten intersectional games are listed for Western Conference elevens for the 1929 season. Harvard, Army, Pittsburgh, Colgate, Princeton, Navy, Mississippi, Vanderbilt, and the University of Washington are the Eastern, Western and Southern teams that will collide with Big Ten elevens.

The University of Washington Huskies, never seen before in the Western Conference will play the University of Chicago at Chicago in the final game of the season November 23.

The South will send Vanderbilt Northward to oppose Minnesota at Minneapolis, October 12, with the University of Mississippi coming to Lafayette, Ind., for a game with Purdue, November 9.

After several years of discussion, Harvard will come to the Midwest for a game with Michigan at Ann Arbor, November 9. Colgate will engage two Big Ten teams, meeting Wisconsin at Madison, October 5, and Indiana at Bloomington, October 19. The outstanding intersectional games are:

October 5—Colgate vs. Wisconsin at Madison.

October 12—Vanderbilt vs. Minnesota at Minneapolis.

October 19—Colgate vs. Indiana at Bloomington.

November 2—Chicago vs. Princeton at Princeton.

November 2—Ohio State vs. Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

November 9—Harvard vs. Michigan at Ann Arbor.

November 9—Army vs. Illinois at Urbana.

November 9—Mississippi vs. Purdue at Lafayette.

November 16—Navy vs. Ohio State at Columbus.

November 22 — University of Washington vs. Chicago at Chicago.

In addition to the intersectional games, Notre Dame, perennial rival of Big Ten teams, will make three appearances against Conference elevens. Rockne's Ramblers meet Indiana at Bloomington, October 5; Wisconsin at South Bend, October 19 and Northwestern at Evanston, November 23.

ANDERSON ELECTED

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Henry James Anderson, of Chicago, a guard, will captain Northwestern University's football team next season. He was elected at the annual grid banquet at which 29 were awarded varsity letters.

TRADES TO BE MADE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—If there are any fireworks at the National League's annual meeting the experts will have lost the last measure of what self-confidence remains to them.

They have taken it on the chin with monotonous regularity when they attempted to pick winners in actual sport competition.

Most of them predicted, there was some show of confidence, that all would be calm and peaceful at the meeting of the National League, opening today at the Waldorf-Astoria, and concluding tomorrow.

Off hand it appears that aside from the election of a president, the league has little to do that is otherwise than routine procedure. As a matter of fact the presidential election can be classed as routine business. John A. Heydler, it is expected, will be re-elected for a long term of years and may set a premature Christmas present in the form of a raise in the $25,000 salary he already receives.

The St. Louis Cardinals officially will be named the 1928 league champions, but it is somewhat doubtful whether any mention will be made of the late world series, source of considerable lamentation on the part of National League followers. Plans also will be made for the joint meeting with the American League in Chicago Thursday.

TRADES IN AIR

With this schedule, it would appear that a few trades will have to come to the rescue of the baseball writers. At the minor league meeting in Toronto, it was indicated that the majors completed several outstanding deals that they preferred to keep under their collective hat until the time came for their own league meetings. These may come to light in the next two days or perhaps not until Thursday at the joint meeting. There is at least one trade, either made or in the making, by which the New York Giants would add a good right-handed pitcher to their somewhat shaky mound staff. Rumor has had it that John McGraw would not object to finding Pete Donohue or Adolf Luque, or both, in a Giant uniform next season.

The Pittsburgh Pirates also are on the hunt for pitchers and may be persuaded to part with Glenn Wright, a great shortstop no more than two years ago. The Chicago Cubs, it is supposed, will make a grab for any third-baseman that can hit.

THREE SWIM TITLES AT STAKE

One of the most interesting swimming meets in a number of years is scheduled for this evening in the Natatorium pool, George Kojac, of the New York Boys' Club, the backstroke champion of the world and winner at the last Olympic games, will provide the chief magnet for the water fans.

The deciding of three A. M. A. championships also is carded, and nearly 100 individuals will compete during the evening.

Canzoneri to Meet Singer on Friday

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—With the De Vos-Hudkins match off the books until December 21, a 10-round bout between Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, and Al Singer, of The Bronx, will have to content fight fans who go to Madison Square Garden for their battle amusement this week. They meet Friday night.

The De Vos-Hudkins postponement necessitated a complete shift in the Garden's boxing calendar. The Jimmy Maloney-Cora O'Kelly scrap was set back from December 21 to December 28, and the Young Stribling-Joe Sekyra match from December 28 to January 4.

BRANCH RICKEY ALONE SURVIVES CARDS' AX

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

AND the parade of the St. Louis baseball wooden soldiers continues. Hornsby, O'Farrell, McKechnie, Maranville, Harper, all of them are gone. And perhaps Frankie Frisch will be next!

Who is the boss down in Cardinal town? Looks very much as if the dominating influence of the club is none other than Branch Rickey, vice president and former manager, who stepped aside as pilot in favor of Hornsby several seasons back.

If this migrating of stars keeps on, it soon will be necessary for the Cardinals to number their players and managers. They don't stay long enough for the fans to get to know them by sight. Why not number them, the same as football players, and help along the sale of scorecards?

And, speaking of numbering athletes, it seems to this department that it would be a good plan for the colleges of this section to adopt the fad in vogue in California of numbering the football players fore and aft, or duplicating on the front of their jerseys the large numerals that appear on the back. Then the fans and scribes would be able to indentify them more readily even when they're on the ground, which, as everyone will agree, is no place for a good football player to be.

TOM JONES, the Georgia Tech end, is a cousin of Red Barron, the great halfback of the Yellow Jackets, who played against Pitt in those two games at Forbes Field during the wartime campaigns.

Peter Pund, the Tech center, who is the general choice for All-America pivot man, also is captain of the Georgians. He weighs 195 pounds and stands well over 6 feet tall. He is a natural leader who shines at his best on defense, as do all great centers. He plays a loose center, directing the placing of the other linemen and diving into the holes to make tackles. He also stars in breaking down passes. Offensively, he is rated the best snapperback in the South.

The Tech team, which finished its season undefeated by beating Georgia, 20-6, in the final game last Saturday, plays California in the Tournament of Roses game, January 1.

Next Friday night will be "fish night" for a fact, being the occasion of the fish dinner of the Allegheny county chapter of the Izaak Walton League of America at the Elks' Temple, on the North Side. The function will be attended by many figures prominent in the propagation and conservation of fish and game. Talks by experts and interesting moving pictures of fish life, together with the fish dinner, make up the program. It will be a big night for the lovers of the outdoors.

BOB WADDELL, Carnegie Tech head football coach, told a good story on Saul Mielziner, the Tech center, at the testimonial banquet in the latter's honor at Webster Hall last night.

"One of the rules on our team is that on the kickoff every man must try to take one or more of the opposition out of the play," Waddell said. "We tell the players to knock the other men off their feet and take them out of the action. The player who had shown the most aptitude in this department was Mielziner. He would knock down one and then go on for others. It got to be a treat to watch him on the kickoff.

"This special ability of Mielziner set the stage for a big laugh in one of our games. The opposition kicked off and the ball went only a short distance to Mielziner, who was startled to receive it, but grasped it eagerly and appeared intent on doing great things with it, only to find himself hit almost immediately by three tacklers, who dragged him to earth. Picking himself up slowly after the play, his mind was on one thing, and that was the team's coaching to take out the opposition on the kickoff. As he took his position to resume play, he barked:

"'Say, where in blazes was my interference on that play?'"

Saul's father, I. Mielziner, of Cleveland, was one of the guests at the banquet, and he glowed with pardonable pride as the speakers lauded his son for his playing, unusual sunny disposition and character and loyalty. As the elder Mielziner expressed his appreciation and told how happy the occasion made him feel, big Saul, scaling approximately 225 pounds, broke down for the only time of the evening, dissolving in tears. It was an affecting scene. By the way, there's another boy in the Mielziner family, and he, too, may become a Carnegie Tech star in time.

Johnny Vivio and Dominick Profio, local welterweight rivals, meet in an eight-round return bout at East Liverpool, O.

Nine vaudeville acts and six amateur boxing bouts make up the program of the monthly smoker of Typographical Union No. 7, which will be held tomorrow evening in the Elks' Temple, downtown. The public, including women, is invited to attend.

Howard Mayberry, of Donora, and Davey Adelman, of Philadelphia, will scale in at 126 pounds for their 10-round feature bout at McKeesport Thursday night. They formerly fought as flyweights.

Tommy Loughran, the light-heavyweight champion defying the New York Athletic Commission, will wage a campaign against the heavyweight contenders. He meets Big Boy Peterson in a 10-round bout in Chicago next Monday night.

Bobby Ray, of the Hill, who has been in Panama for several years serving in the Army, is now in California with his manager, Sol Solovey, the boxing promoter of Panama City, and plans to come on here along about March and to return to Panama in May. He is fighting under his real name, Harry Kahn, and, to distinguish himself from the Milwaukee Harry Kahn, is known as Panama Harry Kahn. While here he would like to meet Cuddy DeMarco or any of the other 135-4-0-pounders. It will be recalled that he appeared in a couple of bouts hereabouts while on leave of absence from the Army two years ago.

Donohue Would Help McGraw Outfit

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

THAT John McGraw is on the trail of Pete Donohue appears logical. In the closing weeks of the season this paper heard reports to the effect that the Giant chieftan would make an attempt to acquire the tall Texan, it also being rumored that Adolfo Luque might be included in a deal with the Giants.

It may be that Jack Hendricks and McGraw already are deep into some sort of a transaction. Donohue has not been a high-class pitcher for the Reds in the past two years, and it is known that the Cuban star would like to move from his present summer-time address. With the National League meeting on this week, developments of an interesting nature are awaited.

Either Tall Pete or the little Havana star could be expected to round out McGraw's sharpshooting staff, but it is likely that the boss of the Polo Grounders would prefer to get Donohue, for several reasons. Donohue is just a youngster in the game while Luque has been doing the pitching trick so long that he is apt to pass from the majors any time.

PETE OFF FORM

When the Texas collegian came to the big show he did not lose much time in getting close to the top among the athletes of the slab, but after some brilliant seasons, Pete showed a rather astonishing change of form. The lack of punch in the Redland aggregation doubtless had something to do with Donohue's inability to stay in a winning stride. In any event, the Giants would like to have him. McGraw probably has Peter figured as a star of the mound under the right sort of a supporting cast.

Give New York Donohue and you could just about put that club at the top of your list for the 1929 flag. The team has plenty of punch and speed, an improvement in the slab division being the one thing necessary to give the entry championship flavor.

With Walter Maranville and George Harper gone, the Cardinals are not so hot. Rabbit and his mate were big factors in the winning of the flag by the Redbirds. Who knows what a kid shortstop like Gelbert, of Rochester, will be able to accomplish when put to the big test?

Under the conditions that exist in St. Louis it would be the better part of judgment to place both the Cubs and the Pirates higher up in the flag rating than the present champs.

Chillysazzee

The troublesome third-base problem in the Cub family is apt to be solved by West Newton's Danny Taylor, fleet-footed diamond star, who has been purchased by the Bruins from the Memphis club of the Southern Association. Danny, it seems, had had some infield experience and Chicago reports state that the Western Pennsylvanian will be drilled at the hot corner in the next spring training season of the Cubs.

Danny has enjoyed two remarkable seasons with the Chicks. He has much to recommend him, aside from his home and neighbors. His speed is augmented by strength, swatting ability, baserunning judgment and other valuable assets of the exacting diamond sport. He features on the offensive side of the game, however.

Homers, triples and doubles are favorite prescriptions with Danny to win ball games, and when he does his stuff on the bases the boys look on with compliments. What a ten-strike he would represent to Marse Joe if he could be converted into a third-sacker. He would indeed be a good running mate for Hornsby, Cuyler, Wilson and the others. McCarthy is surfeited with clever outfielders, so much so that Taylor would find it extremely difficult to get through the entanglements of the outfield. But there should be room for a boy like Danny and it is quite likely that he will make his own hole.

The "chain-store" idea in baseball was listed high until Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig shelled division headquarters in the world series.

Breadon and Rickey perhaps couldn't win a flag in 20 years. Wonder if they were jealous because McKechnie and Maranville turned the trick in one season?

As an umpire Bill Klem is a gem, according to John Heydler's estimate of his lost arbiter. Bill probably feels that inasmuch as he is a jewel he should be mounted on a world series setting.

With Thevenow and Maranville banished, it will be pleasant diversion next July to read the explanations of Breadon and Rickey, if their kid shortstop folds up.

The Braves have been trying for a long time to fill Rabbit's shoes, but they finally did it.

Odie Cleghorn being ready to trade any boy in the local lineup, it is apparent that the Pirates are all skating on thin ice.

Columbus (Ga.) Club Goes on Block

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The Columbus club of the Southeastern League will be sold to the highest bidder Wednesday, if an offer acceptable to the stockholders is received.

During the three seasons of the league's existence the club is said to have lost heavily each year. Advertisements have been inserted in the local papers asking for sealed bids, to be opened Wednesday morning.

awarded or that so many thousands of baseballs were used in the championship games played during the year.

IT WILL not be due to any lack of effort on the part of the Pirate bosses if one or two swaps do not develop. If they cannot obtain Travis Jackson from New York in exchange for Glenn Wright, a possibility that has become remote during the past week, they may try to land a left-hand pitcher and an infielder from another Eastern club in a trade for the Buccaneer shortstop.

Besides, they are believed to have another deal pending in a different direction, though its consummation is by no means assured, while the closing of the dicker for Pitcher Steve Swetonic, of the Indianapolis team, and the purchase of a left-hand hurler from another Class AA minor league club also are among the probabilities of the near future.

Rene De Vos

THE postponement of the Rene De Vos-Ace Hudkins fight, scheduled for tonight in New York, until December 21, did not result from any unwillingness on the part of De Vos to go through with it, according to report. A boil on the Belgian's neck was the cause of such severe pain during a training session on Saturday that the fighter fainted, and it was then decided to postpone the bout. While the promoters and managers were conferring, De Vos appeared and offered to carry out his agreement, but his advisers overruled him. Owing to the change of date, the Jimmy Maloney-Con O'Kelly match, slated for December 21 has been put back to December 28.

Yanks Lose, But Welch Goes Over

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Benny Friedman's passing game was functioning on all cylinders yesterday, and the Detroit Wolverines crushed the New York Yankees, 34 to 6, in a National Professional League football contest.

Gibby Welch, former Pitt star, scored the first touchdown for the Yankees in the initial period, grabbing a pass from Kelly and dashing over the line.

COUNTY LEAGUE TO LIFT LID TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN

THE Allegheny County League, Pittsburgh's premier professional basketball circuit, will usher in the 1928-1929 season tonight when four of the six clubs enrolled as members clash in the two inaugural battles.

The feature attraction on the opening day's program is the battle between the Duquesne Lafayettes, twice winner of the championship, and the Goldensons. This game is scheduled at the Duquesne Library floor and judging by the interest shown by the followers of the two clubs, a capacity crowd will be in attendance.

The second contest brings together the Miele-Franchina Club, a team composed of members of the Siano and Miele clubs of last winter, and Reliance Life. The two clubs have strengthened their lineups considerably and are expected to present an interesting battle at Columbus Temple, the home floor of the Miele-Franchina combine.

The Miele-Franchinas yesterday announced the addition to their roster of Nate Lippe, former Enoch Rauh and Geneva College star forward, who is expected to fill the shoes of the departed Yans Wallace. The Rauhs and Duquesne Light, the remaining two members of the League, will not swing into action until later in the week, the Rauhs meeting Reliance Life on the Armory floor Wednesday night, while Duquesne Light engages the Rauhs at Columbus Temple Thursday night. The first week's schedule will wind up Saturday night when the Duquesne Lafayettes help Duquesne Light open its home campaign at the Market House.

RITZ AT CLEVELAND

William G. Nunn, manager of the Ritz Club, will take his team to Cleveland today where the local Negro stars are scheduled to meet the Cleveland Elks tonight. The Elks boast one of the finest halls in the Ohio city and inasmuch as the Ritz Club is popular in that section a large crowd is expected to attend the battle. The Ritz Club will play a return game with the Elks at Columbus Temple later in the season.

George Ramsay, former star center of the Morrys, has been signed to coach the McKeesport Alumni team of the Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League. Ramsay has given up active competition to devote most of his attention to officiating. He has been enrolled in the West Penn Association.

The members of the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League will remain inactive until Wednesday night when the league-leading Y. M. H. A. passers invade Kingsley House and East Liberty Y. M. C. A. appears at Heinz House.

Competition in the Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League will be resumed tonight when the Morry Five, of Braddock, meets the Felders at Jeannette.

WILDER HANDICAPPED

A bad leg has kept Davey Wilder, former Doc Gordon star, out of the Y. M. H. A. lineup. Wilder is without the least doubt one of the best amateur players in this section of the state and once he gets back into first-class condition the Bellefielders are going to have an improved lineup. In the meantime, Coach Scher has his passers going at full speed.

The Rauhs are making preparations to handle a large crowd at their Allegheny County League opener at Columbus Temple next Thursday night when they meet the Duquesne Light team. The Rauhs will have in their lineup Moy Rubenstein, Bill Miller, Wy Paris, Meyer Paris and Johnny Serbin, a team that shapes up as one of the best ever to represent their colors in independent basketball.

Braddock is all agog over the opening Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League game scheduled at the spacious Knights of Columbus Hall Wednesday night when the Morry Five meets Immaculate Heart. Immaculate Heart lost its first game, but show considerable promise.

GORDONS IN PRELIMS

Dovey Slutzsky's Lou Gordon Juniors will appear in all preliminary games to the Rauh attractions at Columbus Temple this winter. The Lou Gordons won the junior championship last winter, defeating the Red McMahans of the South Side in a three-game series and judging by their work to date they promise to better their record this season.

North Side Community House is hard at work preparing for its opening home game next Saturday night when a strong amateur team will be the guest of last year's amateur champion.

The Morry Club will invade Columbus Temple next Friday night to meet the Ritz Club, in a non-league game. The game marks the opening home attraction of the Ritz Club.

SPEAKER BUYS VIC ALDRIDGE, WRIGHTSTONE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Tris Speaker, new manager of the Newark Internationals, today engineered his first big deal by announcing the outright purchase from the New York Giants of Vic Aldridge, veteran right-hand pitcher, and Russell Wrightstone, utility infielder.

Aldridge was loaned to Newark late last season, winning five straight games, but was recalled at the close of the campaign. He came to the Giants from Pittsburgh in the deal involving Burleigh Grimes after pitching on two championship Pirate clubs, in 1925 and 1927.

Wrightstone spent eight years years with the Phillies before coming to the Giants last season. He has played every infield position during his major league career as well as the outfield and is a consistent .300 hitter.

W. P. I. A. L. CAGE RACE GETS SETBACK

By JESS CARVER

Some of the kick, nay, a good part of it, has been distilled from the coming W. P. I. A. L. basketball campaign by the barring for one year of New Castle High School. New Castle was set down by the league's decisions committee last Saturday for playing a non-resident student on its football team.

The committee gave New Castle a year on the shelf for its offense and, at the same time, tied a 12 months' suspension on California High for paying the carfare of two of its athletes to and from school. If there is such a thing as justice in the W. P. I. A. L., it appears as if it was miscarried Saturday. California's crime, which closely approaches professionalism, certainly was worse than New Castle's, which, when thoroughly explained, concerned merely a technical point, and, as Prof. Orth, of the Lawrence county school, stated, would have little legal support if taken into court.

NEW CASTLE OUT

The cage race will not seem like the same hectic scramble with Coach Bridenbaugh's well-drilled Red and Black machine out in the cold. New Castle has been a prominent factor in all of the W. P. I. A. L. campaigns during the last five or six years and its absence will be felt when time comes for the sectional eliminations next March.

In a statement from New Castle after the meeting, Prof. Orth complained bitterly over the treatment accorded New Castle, charging cut and dried methods on the part of the league. Beaver Falls' protest, according to Orth, was illegally made and came almost without warning.

It is difficult to see how the directors committee could make ruling on the Falls protest with such dispatch, when it did not do the same thing in the case of two former protests lodged by Beaver Falls officials following the 40-0 defeat suffered at the hands of New Castle's powerful eleven. Beaver Falls protested Ostrosky and Cain, of the Castle eleven, at a meeting held here November 24, and the committee waited until Saturday to act on the matter. No higher praise was upheld, but the verbal jack made by the Beaver Valley folks was almost immediately acted upon with New Castle being given no time to present a defense.

Prof. Orth said he sought expert legal advice on the matter when he received the first inkling that Beaver Falls was going to use the protest as an ace-in-the-hole if the two other protests should be disallowed and that it was opinion of men of law that there was no basis for a just protest.

NEW GROUP LIKELY

At any event, being suspended from the W. P. I. A. L. means little or nothing to New Castle. It is a certain bet that none of the league teams will see fit to boycott Coach Bridenbaugh's team, for New Castle is THE big money-maker of the organization. Such a suggestion was very emphatically vetoed by the members of the league Saturday. New Castle can go on winning honors for a year without gain in the matter of a trophy or two, and remain at the same high peak that the school has occupied for the last 10 years.

In fact, the California misstep was by far the more serious of the two. Paying the transportation costs of athletes smacks of nothing short of out-and-out professionalism. California should have been set down for a year and New Castle given a six months' suspension—if at all. Depriving the school of its grid victories for the past year should have been punishment enough.

It will not be surprising to see a movement by some of the larger schools in the league toward the formation of a separate organization—possibly a conference of 10 or a dozen schools. The W. P. I. A. L. is far from strong at present, and a league of schools like New Castle, Wilkinsburg, Greensburg, Washington, Turtle Creek Union, Charleroi, Ellwood City, Butler and one or two others would furnish the present body serious and very likely fatal opposition.

Such a league would be able to do away with the unsatisfactory point system of awarding football championships, which would be more than sufficient reward for its formation.

W. & J. to Hear Grid Report This Week

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 10.—The athletic council at W. & J. at a meeting to be held sometime this week will receive Graduate Manager William G. Theurer's report of the recent football season and probably will take action relative to the coaching situation. The three-year contract of Head Coach Andy Kerr expires with this year and the Red and Black authorities are now confronted with the problem of naming a tutor for another period. Manager Theurer's contract also expires with this year and the filling of his position will also hold the attention of the members of the council.

Both Kerr and Theurer have filled their engagements at Wash-Jeff with eminent satisfaction and there seems to be no doubt that both will be retained for another period, although the college authorities refuse to comment on the situation. Kerr had a lean year the past season, but he had little material and there is no disposition to criticize his work. During his first two seasons he held Wash-Jeff to a high football pinnacle.

OHIO TO NAME NEW COACH TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Followers of Ohio State's football fortunes are expected to know tonight who will be head football coach next season to succeed Dr. John W. Wilce, who has retired after 16 years of service. The selection is expected to be announced at the annual banquet to the football team.

Opinion is general here that Sam L. Willman, assistant to Dr. Wilce for three years, will be chosen to succeed him. The board announced last Thursday that several candidates were being considered, but no names were mentioned.

Allan Holman, Ohio State's star quarterback, is ineligible for further competition on the Buckeye squad, in the opinion of Athletic Director L. W. St. John, who expressed the opinion that Holman was automatically ruled out by the three-year rule. Final action must be taken by the athletic board.

The resolution will be forwarded to both bodies.

LASSMAN STILL SUFFERS FROM CONCUSSION

THE barrier of silence that has been erected about the person and case of Al Lassman, injured New York University gridiron star, who has been confined in Mercy Hospital here since November 24, when he was severely hurt while playing against Carnegie Tech at Forbes Field, was partially broken down today when attending physicians admitted that he still had concussion of the brain. The hospital followed its daily habit of bulletining that he is "showing fine improvement."

At the same time, the doctors flatly refused to permit Lassman to be interviewed, and also refused to allow photographers to take pictures of the patient.

Many and varied have been the conflicting reports as to Lassman's condition since he was taken to the hospital. One is that his left arm is partially paralyzed. He has been denied visitors from the very start—at least, newspapermen have been steadfastly refused admittance to his room. Aside from admitting that he is still suffering from concussion, his doctors have refused to give out any details as to the extent of his injuries.

Dr. J. D. O'Donnell told the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph today that it would be two or three weeks before Lassman would be permitted to leave the hospital, this despite the statement that he is showing fine improvement. Charles D. Vye, of New York University, who has been here with Lassman since his injury, said the reason Al is being kept in Pittsburgh is to keep away from the "crowds of people who would demand to see him in New York and to save him from being bothered by his friends there."

Notre Dame Opens Season Tonight

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Dec. 10.—Coach George Keogan's University of Notre Dame basketball quintet will get its first test of the season tonight, when it meets the Armour Tech five of Chicago, at Notre Dame.

For the past several seasons, the Technicians have served as trial horses for Keogan's machines, and it is seldom that they do not give the Irish a battle. Keogan expects a strong argument from them this year, and is working his men at a fast pace this week in order to have them functioning as smoothly as possible for the opening game.

COACH QUITS JOB

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The resignation of Fred V. Ricker as athletic instructor and basketball coach at St. Mary's High School and the appointment of Charles Scallo, as his successor were announced today. Teams coached by Ricker participated in the National Catholic Interscholastic basketball tournaments, at Chicago.

Michael Hires Madge's Dad After Hearing of Their Catastrophe

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayer, young and beautiful, lives in a dingy New York apartment with her father, an unsuccessful inventor, who always plans for riches that never come. Madge seeks thrills and gaiety, and longs for the intoxication of joyous living. At a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend, she meets Carroll Dudley, handsome artist, aviator and "man about town." Dudley lays siege to Madge, who is warned by Frances Storrs. She dines in his luxurious studio apartment. He takes her on a midnight airplane ride and following several days' rushing asks her to pose for him. Madge agrees on certain conditions. These he accepts, but after posing Dudley takes Madge in his arms and professes his love. She assures him of her own love and speaks of marriage which Dudley avoids. Over an accidentally "broken-in" wire Madge hears him called "a Prince of Cads." He allays her suspicions, but when he is out a woman appears in the studio. "I am Mrs. Carroll Dudley," she announces to Madge. Carroll explains that love made him hide his marriage but now he is to be free. Madge accepts his explanations. Unexpectedly she returns from a visit to her father now staying in the country and finds that Carroll has exhibited her painting to a party of his friends. In a rage she rips the canvas with a stiletto and rushes into the street. She wakes up in a hospital room with flowers and nurses, and a message from the rich young Michael Winchester whose car had run her down. Winchester falls in love with Madge, and insists that she go to Atlantic City to recuperate. Dudley follows her there. When he insinuates that Winchester is keeping her she sends him away. Her father informs her that his last nickel is gone.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XI.

AFTER her father had told her all his money had been lost on the stock markeet, Madge found herself thinking that, though the blow had been a sudden one, it had not been altogether unexpected. For a long time she had known that her father's finances were in a perilous state.

"Don't you care, father," Madge said tenderly. "What's money anyway? I'll see Frances Storrs the second we get back, and both of us will land jobs."

She realized that she had been speaking clearly and rather loudly at the same moment that she observed that the door to the next room was ajar.

Tam, eager to assert his importance and hearing someone in the next room, ran growling to see what it was all about. Then they heard Michael's voice talking to the dog.

"What's all the fuss, Tarn? Don't you know your old friend?" she heard Michael say.

Placing her finger on her lips as a sign for silence to her father, Madge rose. Leaning on his arm and supported by her cane, she went slowly towards the next room. Had Winchester heard, she wondered? What would he think? Would he imagine that the scene was staged for his benefit? She felt a flush of embarrassment.

From Winchester's expression, Madge was unable to tell whether he had overheard or not. He was playing with Tam, and he kept up a chatter about nothing in particular until dinner, which was served in their private dining room, was nearly over.

Then he turned with a smile to Madge.

"You were telling me I never worry about business," he said.

"Well, do you?" Madge asked, as she presented a small piece of roll to Tam, who very coldly refused it.

"They will worry me at times with details," Michael went on. "I rely on a man by the name of Henry Clay Albright, as my father did before me. Albright attends to everything—and engaged the entire office staff. But now he comes to me asking me—of all people—if I can find him someone."

"Find him someone for what?" she queried, wondering what he was driving at.

"Among all the properties, there are a number of apartment-houses east of Fifth avenue," he explained. "It seems, the difficulty is to find anyone who is tactful—someone preferably not young—and an educated man. He has to show tenants over the various apartments, and so on—be smiling, and have some organizing ability. It isn't much of a job as the salary is only $90 a month, and why Albright should worry me about it I don't know. You don't know anyone by any chance, do you? You see, the man must be absolutely beyond suspicion as regards integrity."

Michael had spoken with such elaborate carelessness and seemed so genuinely bored in that he had been asked to settle such a minor point in his office that Madge could not be quite sure if he were saying this to help out her desperate situation or not. To begin with, she was not certain if Michael had overheard her talking to her father .... But before she could speak, her father was saying nervously:

"I have had a good deal of business experience, Mr. Winchester." Would I have any chance for that job?"

Michael seemed surprise. "You, Mr. Sayre? I can hardly imagine you taking a job like that, but if you know how I am tempted to snap you up on it. Do you mean you really would take it?"

Madge saw that her father was flattered as he told Michael that it was just the kind of thing for which he was looking. Well, let him have it! Of course if Michael tried—oh, if he tried anything—then would be the time to have her father withdraw.

"I am very grateful, Mr. Winchester," Madge heard her father say. "I shall do everything I can to make you glad of your choice."

She watched the two men shake hands across the table to clinch the bargain, but it was well for Madge's peace of mind that she did not hear Michael speaking on long distance from his hotel a little later.

"Oh, Albright, Winchester speaking," he was saying. "An important instruction, and give it your own personal attention so that nothing slips up. A Mr. Jonathan Sayre will be calling on you in a few days. Got that name clearly? Yes, Sayre. I have told him that you have asked me—get that straight—that you asked me to find a man to look after the renting of some of the more expensive apartment houses. Give him just enough work to make him feel important, and don't let him guess I am asking the job for him. Remember, he is to be treated as though he were a personal friend of mine, and the salary is five hundred a month in his own hours. Now, take personal charge of it, and don't bore me by telling me that a man isn't needed, and that I could get him for thirty a week if he were."

And as he hung up the receiver, Winchester sat smiling to himself.

had retired. Frances Storrs appeared in Madge's suite.

Meanwhile, just after her father "I am motoring with Ernest and Gladys Peabody," Frances explained. "You left without even saying goodby, but I called the hospital and they told me where you were. Gladys and Ernest have practically passed out, so I dashed over here—what's it all about?"

Tam was barking furiously at the intrusion. Madge hushed him.

"Who is this?" Frances wanted to know. "Does he know anything about my past—or why doesn't he like me?"

"He hardly likes anybody, but isn't he a darling, Frances? Michael Winchester gave him to me."

"So I should have imagined," Frances answered dryly.

"Why?"

"A Scotch terrier like that is worth anything from two hundred and fifty up," the other retorted. "He seems to be giving you quite a lot of things, doesn't he?"

"Frances Storrs! What do you mean?" Madge demanded.

"Now, Madge dear, don't go getting sensitive with me. I have no morals, and no mission to preach to the world. Carroll gave you a filthy deal, and it is natural enough. After all, Michael Winchester is a gentleman, which you can't say about most men, and he can give you anything in the world. You're the type to have a job looking pretty and spending a hundred thousand a year."

"Do you mean that you think there is something between Michael and me?" Madge questioned slowly.

"Little one!" Frances laughed. "Not to me! To the rest of the world, but not to me!"

"Frances, your cynicism overreaches itself. You must think that about everybody. Michael's car knocked me down. I refused damages and we made a bargain instead. He was to get me well again and call it a day."

Frances, despite her cynicism, suddenly knew Madge was telling the truth.

"I'll be darned!" she exclaimed. "Well, say, Madge—you had better watch your step, my dear. I believe you, of course I do. But the rest of the world won't, and I'll bet he's going to spring something on you. By the way—what does your old man feel about all this?"

"That will prove you're wrong about Michael as you were about me," Madge protested. "Only this evening, father accepted a job in Michael's office—something to do with real estate—on the very evening that I heard father had lost the last of his capital and we were practically down and out."

Frances smoked in silence for a little while. Then she got up and walked about the room, talking excitedly.

The Butterfly -:- By Madge Geyer

I WONDER what she thinks she is going to gain by her knowledge of butterflies? Perhaps she's searching for new ideas to use in the pursuit of her own butterfly career. Or maybe, when she sees the lovely specimen which is so gorgeously spread before her, she envies the beauty and gorgeousness of the lovely thing.

Who can tell? For the butterfly girl may not be such a flighty thing after all. She may be a lot deeper and more sincere than some you know. Then again—well, it all depends on just how you see her. But one thing's sure—she's truly as lovely as the most beautiful butterfly that ever fluttered through a short life. And who would wish her otherwise? That's half her charm, especially to the one who's in love with her.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Seems to Have Advantage in Game of Hearts

PHILIP VERITZEN'S eyes held an inscrutable look and his brows were narrowed as Mary came into the room looking lovely enough to justify the ardent admiration which was plainly mirrored in the eyes of both Noel and Prince Georges. I saw my employer send a quick furtive look at Princess Olina from beneath those heavy eyebrows, and guessed that he was furiously angry at the other three of the quartet for the hurt pride which the royal beauty was trying hard to conceal.

For there were no youthful masculine eyes fixed upon her as if they would never look in any other direction, as Prince Georges and Noel were gazing at Mary. Yet many judges would have awarded the palm of superior beauty to the tall regal girl with the raven black hair and pansy eyes. But Noel's affection is of the sort which once fixed, never changes, while Prince Georges was so carried away by Mary's American vivacity—and audacity, that until the novelty of his acquaintance with her wore off, he would have no eyes for anyone else.

"Hello! everybody!" Mary said breezily as she came up the steps. "You look so lazily comfortable, and we're all windblown! Is Junior all right—but of course, he is, or you wouldn't be down here, Auntie Madge."

She flashed a prettily affectionate glance at me, and I smiled back at her, my genuine fondness for her augmented by her concern for my boy.

"He has just wakened from a most refreshing nap," I said, and Philip Veritzen, as if suddenly remembering the real object of his visit turned his inscrutable look at Mary into a smiling appeal to me.

"Then don't you think he might be amused at some of these trifles," he said indicating the packages which were piled beside him, and which justified Katherine's assertion that "your esteemed boss has bought out a toy store and a fruit shop."

I never have seen so attractive a basket of fruit as he had brought. It was far more suitable as a bon voyage gift for some departing potentate than it was for a small boy. Still I knew that Junior would be wild with delight at the odd and rare fruits which shared honors with the perfect specimens of the more familiar varieties.

A huge box of candy, a number of books and several co lly toys calculated to send any small boy into the seventh heaven of delight, completed the array, and Mr. Veritzen, affably smiling over them, was evidently much impressed with himself in the role of Santa Claus.

"If you will substitute 'delighted' or 'overjoyed' for 'amused' I can agree with you," I told him smiling. "Unfortunately, his nurse forbids candy or books at this stage. But the fruit and the toys he can have, and I am so grateful for them. And a little later when the ban is removed the candy and books can be given him."

Mr. Veritzen put up his hand with an air of disdain quite regal.

"The books, certainly," he said, "but bonbons not fresh from the molds! Unthinkable! He shall have another box as soon as he is able to eat them. In the meantime"—he handed me the box with an elaborate bow—"please accept them for yourself."

"If you'll permit me to share them," I said quickly. "I never would dare to—"

"Don't tell me you're 'counting the calories,'" he said. "You have not—"

"But I am," I returned quickly to forestall the flamboyant compliment I feared was on his lips. "It is only youngsters like these who dare defy all diet laws. So—"

I opened the box and put it upon the table.

"Don't you dare to eat all of it," I threatened when we all had sampled the luscious dainties inside. "You may have all but one layer. That is going to be the personal property of Mr. Veritzen and myself when we come back. How would you like to deliver your gifts in person, Mr. Veritzen?"

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Poor Circulation Affects the Hair

IF you knew how to raise a crop of human hair on a bald and shining dome, you would make a fortune in six months. You would be only a little less popular than a man who was supposed to be able to raise the dead. We may take baldness laughingly, sadly or philosophically. But no matter what may be the spirit in which it is accepted, no man likes to be bald and no woman likes to see her hair falling out in handfuls. Nobody wants to be gray either. The causes that make for baldness in men, or for early white and thinning locks in women are the same. They appear to be peculiar to some families. For this reason they are often thought to be inherited. Like many other ailments, the tendency to baldness may be transmitted, but the actual reasons for rapid falling of the hair are likely to be found in the things we do or do not do.

DR. COPELAND

The hair depends for its life upon the blood that is sent to the scalp from the heart. Without an abundant blood supply to the scalp, the hair is in danger.

We may compare the scalp to a garden and the hair to the crop raised in the garden. Just as the roots of every plant in a garden must be reached by moisture, so must the root of every hair have a supply of blood sufficient for its needs. If the supply of water to the garden is insufficient, or if it does not reach the outer edges of the flower-beds, the plants cut off from moisture will dry up or wither. In the same way, if the stream of blood sent up to the scalp from the heart is not forceful enough to reach and feed the root of every hair, the hair, like the plant, will lose its natural color. It will become dry and lifeless, and perhaps actually die and drop from the head.

Nature has planned the scalp just as carefully as she has every other part of the body. She has supplied it with tiny blood vessels that spread out like a fan, going to every part of the head. Every hair has its own blood vessels. To function rightly, these vessels must be fed by an uninterrupted flow of blood. It must reach every part of the head.

There are various things which interfere with this free flow of blood to the scalp. If the body is not well nourished, there will be trouble. If it is not supplied with the elements needed by the hair, it cannot thrive. If the heart is weak in its action so that it fails to act as a forceful pump, driving the blood through all the tiny vessels of the scalp, the hair is not nourished. If any of these conditions exist then the hair will lose vitality and die.

Tight, hard, heavy hats interfere with the free circulation of the blood. They do their part in causing the hair to fall. The millinery of women is more favorable to keeping the hair than is the headdress of men.

Anything that stimulates the circulation of the scalp is good treatment for falling hair. Massage and brushing are excellent. Hair tonics have their place.

But the best preventive of baldness and of falling hair is a healthy, well-fed and well-exercised body. That means rich blood, good circulation and a well-nourished scalp. It means the saving of the hair.

Answers to Health Queries

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, December 11

THE astral forces for this day seem to combine for restless and possibly agitated conditions, with much activity but with a disintegrating rather than constructive result. These carry a menace of personal danger through accident, violence or passion. Coolness and calm government of tendencies and situations may preclude disaster. The finances need protection and be careful with writings.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of restless and uncertain conditions, with weakened finances and fluctuating fortunes. Shun all manner of violence or accident personally and by embroilment. Be careful with writings.

A child born on this day may be talented and versatile, but will be disposed to be restless, unsettled and turbulent if not violent by nature. Early discipline with leadings into ideals of restraint, probity and veracity is enjoined.

The astrologer is in a degree justified in believing that man is affected by the chemical effect of light heat and the actinic ray, through the interplay of forces—Pontin.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Over the Telephone

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When I am called over the telephone and am not at home, is it correct for the person who answers the telephone to say, "Who is it calling, please?" or should he simply say, "She is not at home. Call her later?" I would always like to know who calls, if it is not incorrect to ask.

ANXIOUS.

IT is proper to ask who is making the telephone call. The person answering may say, "Miss Ladye is not at home. May I tell her, please, who called?" or "Miss Ladye is not at home. Will you leave your name, please?" or "Miss Ladye is not at home. May I have her call you when she comes in?"

"Call her later" is too presumptuous a thing to say. Say instead "Miss Ladye is not at home, but she will be in at 6 o'clock. May I have her call you when she comes in?"

A Reciprocal Gesture

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

In a restaurant when a lady bows to a gentleman, is it enough for the gentleman merely to bow to the lady? A MAN

NO, this isn't quite enough gesture of recognition for a gentleman to make a lady to whom he is bowing in a restaurant. As he bows he makes the gesture of rising by getting up halfway from his chair. Although I realize that this does not sound very graceful, since he does not make a complete rise from his chair, this half-rise can be done in a very graceful and effective manner, giving a distinct air of gallantry.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

A Man's Woman

"WHAT kind of women do men like best?" inquires "Miss Twentieth Century"—just like that!

Well, thank heaven, not all men like the same kind of woman—or what would become of all the brunettes?

But there are certain general qualities which all men like in all women, and those have nothing to do with the shape of a woman's nose or knees or the color of her eyes or hair.

HELEN ROWLAND

Men like a woman with POISE. This does not mean POSE, swagger, boldness or talkativeness. It means a calm self-assurance and a total lack of self-consciousness. If a girl would spend as much time and energy in reducing her inferiority complex as she does in reducing her hips, and in cultivating self-confidence as she does in cultivating her eyelashes, she would get twice the results.

Men like a responsive woman. This does not mean one who is always bubbling over with "pep" or slopping over with emotion, or easy to kiss. It means a ready interest in people and things, a readiness to laugh or smile, a real understanding, sympathy, enthusiasm and friendliness.

Men like an AMIABLE woman. A sweet disposition has carried many a woman through life in a coach-and-four, who would otherwise have to trundle her own wheelbarrow.

Men like a neat, smartly-dressed woman. A man likes to take a girl out who does him credit; and nothing gives him such a thrill as to see a lot of eyes turned to admire the woman who precedes him down the theater aisle.

Men like a woman who is not always on tap—who is a little inaccessible. This does not mean a cold, indifferent woman, but one who has a lot of interests, whose life is colorful, and who is too busy to be dated up on twenty minutes' notice. In the pursuit of woman, men like a little "run for their money."

Men like a FEMININE woman. A woman who knows when and how to be "dependent" and "helpless," and who is not above the employment of such subtle charms as a modulated voice, gentle manners, alluring perfumes, fluffy skirts, waved hair and the use of her eyes.

A woman may be good or bad, young or old, plain or beautiful, rich or poor—but, if she possesses all these qualities, she will be attractive to men.

On the other hand, she may have her face lifted to the high heavens, her figure banted to a bone, and her hair colored like the morning sun, but she will never win much love or devotion, if she has the wrong MENTAL attitude.

A cool head on a woman maketh a warm heart in a man!

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Yule Season Holds Wealth Of Diversions in Social Realm

THERE are just so many different things these days to divert one in this world, especially with Christmas time drawing near, that many would agree with Robert Louis Stevenson that we should all be as happy as kings.

There are plans for winter resorts in the sunny South, for January weddings, for debuts and betrothal announcements, with plans for Christmas squeezed in between. Folks who've been away for the early winter or brief visits are coming back home now for Christmas.

Mrs. James E. Chalfant and Lt. McLaughlin, sister of the bride-elect, will be the other attendant, will be back in Sewickley this week. Mollie, the [illegible] flower girl, I hear. Mollie entered, don't you remember, [illegible] recall, several [illegible] New York? Since [illegible] been living [illegible] bud, more filled [illegible] than that of [illegible]

MOLLIE and Cecilia Prince, with whom she made her [illegible] were guests Saturday at [illegible] eon Mrs. Robert Alexander Gardner, of New York, gave at [illegible] for her debutante daughter, Alexandra Gardner. And, of course, Saturday evening there was a number of debut [illegible] to be attended.

AND I've [illegible] about another Christmas family now making [illegible] Mrs. Howard C. Heinz gave a luncheon at the Metropolitan in New York on Saturday for Mrs. J. Henry Lancashire.

MRS. HENRY L. REA is [illegible] in Sewickley again after a brief visit to Palm Beach. She'll be back in that popular winter resort by January 2. Most folks postpone their departures, I believe, until after the Jan[illegible] weddings. And Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander will leave [illegible] after Christmas and New Year festivities in Palm Beach, have you heard?

AND from now on we're going to hear about a number of dinner parties planned to precede the charity ball on December 27. One of the most interesting of these, particularly as far as the debutante set is concerned, will be given by the Henry Darlington's. The event will be given in the Pittsburgh Club with Virginia Willock, debutante daughter of the Frank Scott Willocks, of Sewickley, and Anita Shields, Mr. Darlington's sister, as guest of honor. Anita will be the guest of her brother-in-law and sister for the Christmas holidays. She made her debut last year in Philadelphia and New York, don't you recall? And the Darlingtons entertained at several events for her.

WELL, the list of January weddings is growing and growing! And all the marriages so planned for that month are exceptionally noteworthy. Not long ago I mentioned that the Lee Holmes Marshalls had announced the engagement of their attractive daughter Anne Louise Marshall to Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr., son of Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, of Morewood avenue. Now Anne has named her wedding date—Saturday, January 19.

AUGUSTA LEOVY, daughter of the Frank A. Leovys, and Clarence Stanley, son of Mrs. William Stanley, of Great Barrington, Massachussetts, will be married on January 9. I'm sure you've noted it in your engagement book.

Now she's named her bridal party. Mrs. Rees T. Scully will be matron of honor and Elizabeth and Helen Leovy will be [illegible] maids of honor. The [illegible] will be Mrs. John F. W. [illegible] of Pittsburgh, and Nancy Osborne, of Southbridge, Mass.

Gilbert Stanley, of New York, will be his brother's best man, and James M. Hoyt, William C. Corrigan, of New York, Boyd M. Gilmore, Eri C. B. Gould, Robert McClintic, Lawrence N. Murray, R. Lucian Patton, Hugh A. Ward, of Hempstead, Long Island, and Warren M. Wells, of Philadelphia, will be ushers.

MALONE VIEWS SPECIAL BOARD IDEA WINNER

President James F. Malone presented to Council today a written appreciation of his colleagues' cooperation in making a success of the special committee plan of studying important items of public service with a view to improving local activities.

Malone's letter, in part, follows:

"Our policy of special committee work was inaugurated last January and since that time 14 committees have been appointed. The committee on fiscal affairs visited Baltimore and as a direct result of its investigations we now have a Pittsburgh plan for centralized control of all disbursements. The plan will become operative the first of the new year and will do away with duplication of accounting service and has the indorsement of the Pittsburgh Bureau of Governmental Research.

"Your committee on highways equipment visited Detroit and made a survey of all modern equipment exhibited there at the national convention. The latest type of equipment was adopted for Pittsburgh, especially the apparatus recommended for use on unimproved highways.

REVENUE COMMITTEE

"Your revenue committee, in addition to seeking new revenue from local sources, has made a canvass of the entire state in support of an amendment to the state vehicular code whereby all cities, boroughs and townships shall receive a share of the automobile license tax for maintenance and construction of highways within the limits of the various municipalities."

Malone states that the plan has received general indorsement and that a bill will be presented to the next Legislature authorizing the rebates. He also states that Council is arranging for a conference with Gov. John S. Fisher in an effort to receive his support.

The committee on taxicab transportation, which supervises the expenditures incurred by employes in traveling from their offices to city projects, will show a saving of $10,000 for 1928.

Regarding garbage and rubbish removal, Malone states information at hand justifies a continuance of the thorough study of the problem and indicates a satisfactory plan will be worked out in the near future.

The committee on airports cooperated with county commissioners in the selection of the site and will continue negotiations next year when the property will be developed jointly by the city and county.

FOILS CHICAGO GANG, BUT JUST FOR MINUTE

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. A. L. Rubel, of Laporte, Ind., had heard all about Chicago, so she knew just what to do when two villainous looking men approached the sedan which her husband had brought to a stop for a traffic signal.

What Mrs. Rubel knew was that these men were avaricious to the point of larceny. With unerring feminine instinct she quickly took her rings and other valuables, worth $600 altogether, and dropped them in a door pocket of the car.

Mrs. Rubel was right; the men were footpads. They demanded money and got $20 from Rubel and $2 from his wife. Mrs. Rubel, however, was smiling to herself about how she had come from Laporte and flimflammed the Chicago gutter-and-yegg men at their own pastime.

She was much chagrinned when the robbers ordered her and her husband from the car, got in themselves, and drove away.

Second Man Slain in Bootleggers' Refuge

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Another gangster murder in Chicago Heights, suburban haven of Chicago bootleggers, was discovered at dawn today. The body of an unidentified man, shot four times through the head and neck, was discovered at a street intersection in the gang-ruled suburb. Last Thursday night, Leroy Gilbert, the village's chief of police, was assassinated as he sat in his home reading a paper.

Robber Slain, Victim Hurt in Gun Battle

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A robber, believed to be Paddy O'Brien, of Seattle, was killed and his victim, Julian Tison, was wounded in a gun duel at an inn on the Mount Rainier highway, 32 miles southeast of here last night. Two men entered the inn and held up Mrs. Tison. Her husband, in the kitchen, opened fire, killing one of the men. The other fired twice at Tison, then fled. Tison was wounded in the abdomen and side.

Man Dies in Fire As He Peruses Newspaper

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 10.—When city firemen responded to an alarm at a residence at 1134 Eoff street last night they found W. J. Crossland, 68, Wheeling bank employe, seated in a chair burned to death. The residence was ablaze, but the fire was extinguished. The aged man had been reading a newspaper which caught fire from the open grate and he was overcome before he was able to call for aid.

SUCCESS LOOMS FOR BOULDER DAM PLAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—The Boulder Dam controversy entered its second week today with prospects of amicable settlement brighter than ever.

Progress was made over the week-end at a series of conferences between leaders of both sides, who today predicted disposal of the measure this week.

Although Senators Ashurst (Dem.), of Arizona, leader of the opposition, and Johnson (Rep.), of California, author of the bill, did not meet personally, their representatives did. Sunday saw them closeted in their offices, trying to iron out differences. The filibuster attitude of the last session is gone. Both sides have attacked the measure as something to be disposed of soon, in some manner.

Senators Bratton (Dem.), of New Mexico, and King (Dem.), of Utah, acted as peacemakers. They urged supporters and opposing forces to settle the controversy and end the six-year-old fight over the power and irrigation project.

"Both sides have shown a disposition to arbitrate, and it is my belief, stronger than ever, that the measure will be disposed of this week," King said today.

Our Daily Short Story

INFERIORITY COMPLEX

By MARTIN ROSS JEFFERSON

JANE HARDING was engaged. That fact was in itself astonishing because for three years Jane had been visited by every eligible male in town—and had graciously let them turned each one down. But it at gave every gossip in the community food for scandal was Jane's choice of a husband. He was neither attractive, fabulously wealthy nor too brilliant. Gilbert Carr was one of those men you meet and forget.

Yet there must have been something in him that attracted Jane and made her forget her more handsome suitors. Perhaps it was that he was more ardent than the others, perhaps his love was more profound. Jane was never one to analyze—she was too impulsive. When she liked anyone she just liked him and let it go at that.

Which was the one fault Gilbert Carr had to find with his fiancee. Gilbert needed reassurances of her love for him—but they were not forthcoming. Time and again he would ask Jane "Why do you love me, darling? Are you sure you love me?" For answer his future wife would say, "Don't be silly, Gil."

Months went by and one day Gil asked Jane when they would marry. "Let's set a date," he explained, "just so that I can look forward to it. Somehow I'll feel more engaged if I know just when we are to be married."

"I haven't yet decided," Jane told him, "but why worry about feeling engaged?"

"You WILL marry me, won't you?" he asked, searching her face for his answer.

Jane stamped her foot impatiently. "You have an inferiority complex—that's what's the matter with you," she threw at him. "If I weren't in love with you I wouldn't have consented to be your wife."

He let it go at that—for a while. Then he began all over again. "Do you love me? Why? Say you love me, dear." Until Jane almost began to doubt herself. She became more and more impatient with her skeptical fiance, but each time he would promise never to molest her with his doubts again.

One evening he telephoned her to say a friend of his, Jack Wharton, had come to town. Would she mind if he joined them at the theater—he had no other friends in town? Of course, Jane said, she didn't mind. Any friend of Gilbert's was a friend of hers. She'd be delighted. And so on.

At seven-thirty, therefore, Gilbert called for her with Jack Wharton, who was everything Gilbert was not. He was tall, with sharp, clean-cut features that bespoke an unusual intelligence. But Jane was engaged to Gilbert and paid no more attention to his attractive friend than was absolutely necessary. She noticed that Gilbert held her arm with an air of possessiveness he had never exhibited before. She noticed that he called her "dear" more often, that he was evidently anxious to have Jack know Jane was his—all his.

With typical feminine independence Jane resented this but said nothing. After the theater they drove Jack home and then walked all the way to Jane's house. She chatted about the play and asked Gilbert what he had thought of the leading lady. He said nothing. "Gil," she reprimanded, "what are you talking off? Why don't you answer me?"

"I'm miserable," he moaned. "It's all so obvious—"

"What's all so obvious?" she demanded.

"That you've fallen for Wharton," he wailed. "The first attractive man I introduce to you you fall for."

"Gilbert Carr, you make me sick," Jane almost shouted. "Jack Wharton means absolutely nothing to me."

"Why you sat there smiling at him all evening long. I could tell you were wishing I weren't with you." This with a bitter smile. "Of course, I know he's handsome and brilliant—there's a darn sight more to him than there is to me—"

Jane burst into tears. "You're killing me with your accusations."

Our Daily Short Story

she said through her sobs. "I never looked at Jack Wharton once—why I don't even know what he looks like!" By this time they had reached Jane's home. She dried her eyes and left Gilbert without saying goodnight.

The next day he sent her roses and asked forgiveness. But it was too late. Because he had planted a germ that was to have fruition—and there was no uprooting it.

Until Gilbert had mentioned it Jane had never realized how attractive Jack Wharton was. But in the weeks that followed she had plenty of opportunity for discerning those virtues in him which had caused Gil's jealousy. Now Jane was no sluggard when it came to appreciation. She knew values, and it didn't take very long for her to realize that Jack Wharton was everything her fiance claimed. He was a far bigger, nobler man than Gil could ever hope to be—and once you make the admission to yourself that the man you love falls short of perfection, your love is doomed.

And so it came about that the very actions Gil had so falsely accused Jane of were the things she was guilty of now. When the three of them went out together she would find herself smiling at Jack and wishing Gil were at the other end of the earth. She would find herself comparing the two men, and putting a cross next to Gil's name. In the meantime Jack's visit had long been up. Weeks went by and still he lingered. We can only suppose, therefore, that Jane's smiles did not leave him unmoved.

Then one day she received a note from Wharton reading: "I'm leaving tonight. Will you come with me as my wife? With all my love, Jack."

Jane read the note with trembling fingers. Then she murmured, "Thank heavens, here's one man without an inferiority complex,"—and slipped a diamond ring from her finger. . . .

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A YOUTHFUL MODEL FOR JUNIORS AND MISSES.

Printed velvet was chosen for this attractive design. Crepe de chine or lightweight woolen is also suggested with crepe for the facings on collar and cuffs. The collar outlines the triangular neck line. The front of the skirt is plaited below the snug fitting hip yoke. In the back it is plain. The waist blouses above the yoke, and the sleeve is finished with soft gathers above a band cuff.

This pattern is cut in four sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. A 14-year size will require 3⅜ yards of 35-inch material. To face the collar and cuffs with contrasting material as illustrated in the large view will require ⅜ yard 24 inches wide. The underbody requires ⅞ yard 32 inches wide. The width of the dress at the lowed edge with plait fulness extended is 1⅞ yard.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ALWAYS TIRED AT NIGHT—TRY THIS

Something is wrong when a person feels constantly "too tired;" when kidneys ache and irritate. Miss Daisy Bell, R. F. D. 3, Savannah, Ga., says: "I suffered 3 years with pain in my back, always felt too tired, and slept poorly, but Foley Pills diuretic made me well and sound again." Men and women everywhere use and recommend them. Try them. Sold everywhere.

Stocks Fall Swiftest Ever; Business May Not Be Hurt.

—By B. C. FORBES

VERY harshly it has been brought home to many that they really were suffering from speculative delirium tremens. When the writer sounded the warning, "The higher they rise the harder they fall," he was deluged with ridicule. One anonymous critic has been sending either sarcastic or scurrilous comments almost daily, finally suggesting an insane asylum as a fit place for the writer of this column. No communications have been received since Wednesday.

Thursday's collapse was the worst the New York Stock Exchange ever witnessed in one day in its history. Friday brought fresh demoralization. So did Saturday.

THIS table shows how severely stocks have collapsed in the last week:

That is not a pleasant picture. It represents untold heartaches. Thousands upon thousands of innocents, swallowing all the childish nonsense so freely published, rushed into the gambling maelstrom, confident that the predictions of unlimited profits would be realized.

Already many have doubtless lost their all.

WHAT is likely to happen next?

The writer believes that many stocks are still selling far too high.

Conditions in the money market alone have been enough to make disaster in stock speculation inevitable. It will take more than a few days' liquidation, even on the drastic scale already experienced, to put the money market on a sound basis.

What are the facts?

BROKERS' loans expanded more than $500,000,000 last month alone, bringing the total expansion for the year to $2,300,000,000. Last week the Federal Reserve Board reported another increase of more than $100,000,000. The same report revealed fresh resource by banks for rediscounts. It revealed, too, that the reserve ratio had fallen to the lowest level in eight years.

Under such circumstances it was entirely logical that the call loan rate should reach 12 per cent and that renewals should reach 10 per cent, a showing not matched in a decade. Meanwhile, time money advanced to 7½ to 7¾ per cent for 60 to 90-day loans, a rate which the sponsors of the Federal Reserve act never expected would arise.

A difference of 2 per cent between commercial paper rates and brokers' rates was and is a new anomaly in American banking. Such a condition could not and cannot last. Either corrective measures must bring down speculative loans and rates or business borrowers will find themselves compelled to pay dearer for accommodation.

IT IS the writer's opinion that the 7½ to 7¾ per cent rate for time money will be corrected and also that speculators will shortly cease to be eager to pay 10 per cent or more for day to day loans.

Between now and the first week in January, however, there may be further fireworks in money rates. Indeed, responsible bankers are quite uneasy over the dangerous possibilities — a fact which has been repeatedly made known here.

THE question sober citizens are asking is, "Will Wall Street upset general business and employment?" This will depend upon how far the debacle in stock prices goes. The writer fears that business and employment will not entirely escape the unusual influence of events in the stock market.

But, happily, industry and business have not been inflated, have not been over-boomed. Outside of Wall Street conditions are on an exceptionally solid basis and should not be seriously affected.

STOCKS SLUMP AFTER EARLY ADVANCES

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The "weeding out" process of weakened margin accounts was resumed in the stock market today after an initial outburst of strength had carried many issues up 3 to 23 points.

Renewal of weakness in Radio, Montgomery Ward, Wright Aeronautical and some of the other high priced specialties turned the general course of prices extremely irregular before midday. In general, most of the high grade, seasoned dividend paying rails and industrials received good support.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent and dropped to 2 when a plentiful supply of funds appeared in the market. Banks called about $15,000,000 in loans, but these were easily replaced.

The day's trade news also was less favorable than usual. The United States Steel Corporation reported a decrease of 78,000 tons in unfilled orders last month, but this probably was due to the maintenance of a high level of operations in the face of a seasonal slackening in demand. The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced a cut of one cent a gallon in gasoline prices in Chicago, and the reduction was immediately met by its leading competitors.

Renewed selling pressure against the high priced specialties undoubtedly was influenced by the unofficial denials of widespread rumors that organized banking support had been provided for the market. Radio was the hardest hit, breaking from an early high of 311, which represented a week-end rise of 18 points, to 275, but it quickly snapped back to 298. Montgomery Ward fell from 342 to 315, Wright Aeronautical from 221 to 196, and National Tea from 350 to 310, while General Motors, Johns Manville, National Biscuit, International Nickel, Rossia Insurance, Columbia Graphophone, Packard Motors and Victor Talking Machine fell 4 or more points below their early high levels.

Some of today's selling undoubtedly represented the liquidation of weakened marginal accounts. Saturday's reaction was so drastic and the rate so late that prices of many stocks were down 5 to 25 points before most traders could get to protect their commitments.

AUTO DEMAND AIDS GLASS INDUSTRY

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE plate glass makers see hope for better times ahead in the constantly growing demand for laminated or shatter-proof glass by the automobile industry. A little over a year ago the first cars were placed on the market using the new glass. Since then the glass factories have been having difficulty in supplying orders, and there has been a rush to get into production by many companies.

The new glass will crack under a severe blow, but the pieces will not fly apart. This greatly increases the safety factor in automobiles in case of an accident. The glass is being placed in cars in both the highest and lowest price fields.

The most significant factor to the glass industry is that two thin sheets of glass go into the production of laminated material, replacing a single heavy sheet of plate glass.

SINCE the sudden popularity of the closed car, six years ago, the motor industry's consumption of plate glass has increased to nearly 60 per cent of the total production. About 65,000,000 square feet of plate glass will go into automobiles this year. If laminated glass should ever be installed on all cars, this industry would consume about 130,000,000 square feet of glass a year, which is greater than the present production in this country. The 1927 census placed plate glass production at 117,097,654 square feet. This year's output is expected to be greater.

The glass industry expects the use of safety glass to continue to grow, but the movement will not be without its hardships for many glassmakers. Laminated glass is made of sheets of plate glass 5-16 of an inch thick. The most modern continuous process for making plate glass can produce this thickness without any difficulty, and the sheet glassmakers can also turn out a product suitable for grinding to this size, but the old plate glass machinery can only make glass as thin as ¼ inch economically. This is the thickness which has been in most common use in automobiles.

IF THE trend towards safety glass continues, it means prosperity for the makers properly equipped to produce the new product or financially able to make the change, but it also means the scrapping of numerous old factories.

The change, however, will only bring the junkman to the door a few years sooner than would otherwise be the case. The press of foreign competition and the consequent drop in prices of about 50 per cent in three years had already shown the handwriting on the wall. The newer installations are able to meet the competition, but the old plants are not.

The new equipment runs a continuous ribbon of glass from a tank and over the grinding and polishing tables, saving enough in costs and handling charges to counteract the cheap labor in Belgian factories. The new plants are designed to supply the automobile market for small areas of glass as well as for thinness. The old plants were built for the market existing when large store fronts represented the big consumption of plate glass.

ALTHOUGH the abandonment of the rebuilding of many plate glass factories seems virtually assured, many of the old installations will still remain in existence and will still find a market for their products. They will be needed to supply the demand for the larger sizes and heavier weights of glass. Big store fronts cannot yet be made by the continuous process.

The January automobile show is expected to bring out several new lines of cars equipped with laminated glass. The Pittsburgh Safety Glass Company, owned jointly by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the Du Pont interests, is supplying Cadillac, La Salle and two of the Chrysler models. Several will be added to this list shortly. The American Window Glass Company is entering the same field, and the Libbey-Owens Sheet Glass Company has been supplying the new product for a long time.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Bears in Saddle.

Bearish sentiment continued to predominate in trading circles today in spite of a strong opening of the New York market. The tape told of the real battle going on in New York, particularly in the shares of Radio Corporation of America, which fluctuated as much as 6 points in one tick. Radio was forced considerably below its low of Saturday. The leaders among the chain store and airplane stocks were also under fire and sold lower. Strong resistance developed in the steels, coppers and oils. The call money rate was reduced from 9 to 8 per cent.

On September 30, unfilled tonnage was 3,698,368 tons. On August 31, 1928, was 3,624,643 and on November 30, 1927, totaled 3,544,144 tons.

Smith & Co., E. H. Rollins and Sons, The Equitable Trust Company of New York and John Nickerson & Co.

Coal Market Improved.

Improvement is under way in the coal producing areas of the United States, with production nearing normal again, and with demand for the winter season. Among the Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., states: In nearly all of the coal centers a gain in production of coal over last year was registered. In Pennsylvania, production is 10.13 per cent, Kentucky 7 per cent, Maryland 5 per cent, Illinois 13 per cent, Indiana 7 per cent, Tennessee 24 per cent, Virginia 4 per cent, and Kentucky 1 per cent. Ohio leads the list in point of gain over last year with 155 per cent. A favorable factor offsetting this large production is the fact that consumers' stocks have been allowed to drop to exhaustion levels. The outlook for distribution is favorable, especially in contrast to 1927. The economists expect that market conditions will improve with the seasonal upswing in consumption that comes with the colder weather.

Celotex Cuts Price.

The Celotex Company has announced its second reduction in price to dealers upon reaching a production schedule of 400,000,000 feet of Celotex per year. The company also will make adjustments with dealers for inventories on hand, H. G. Dahlberg, president, stated. The price reduction policy was inaugurated three years ago when Celotex production reached the 200,000,000-foot mark. The cut in wholesale prices at that time was $5 per thousand feet.

New B. & O. Station.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will open its new passenger station on the ground floor of the new 50-story Chanin Building at Forty-second street and Lexington avenue, New York, on December 15. To and from this station the train connection monitor coaches will be operated in trainside service at the Jersey City terminal. Departing passengers will step into the motor coaches inside of the building and their arriving will also leave them the same place. The station facilities will be as complete and up-to-date as those to be found in any railroad passenger station.

Rail Stocks Steady.

Relative steadiness of railroad stocks during the recent weakness in the general market confirms previously expressed opinions of many investors that railroad issues merited more attention from the public than they have been receiving. Traffic reports continue generally favorable and other indices point to a winter of better railroad business than in 1927-1928. The fact that for a large part of the past year the carriers have had reason to seek economies in operation continue to make for gains in net earnings. It is how clear that the aggregate net for all roads for 1928 will be substantially greater than in 1927, though perhaps not enough more to improve appreciably the percentage return on a constantly growing investment.

Pullman Buys Plant.

The Pullman Car and Manufacturing Company has purchased the equipment of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company car building plant, located at Birmingham, Ala., and will arrange promptly to procure a site in the Birmingham district and enlarge capacity of the plant.

Packard's New Motor.

Development of the Packard Diesel type airplane motor is rapidly nearing point where it will become a standard Packard product. The motor is being subjected to tests and when the engineers are further satisfied with its standardization only a minimum amount of time will be necessary before regular production.

Sees Record Christmas Trade.

Indications point to a larger Christmas trade in 1928 than in any previous year, according to A. F. Whiting, Secretary of Commerce. "A reservoir of $550,000,000 has just been released in the form of Christmas savings, an increase of 10 per cent over a year ago and five times as great as in 1920," the secretary said. "The volume of dividend and interest payments during December, aggregating more than $560,000,000, is 15 per cent larger than during December last year. While a large portion of this money will be reinvested in many ways, it is reasonable to expect that at least 50 per cent will go to swell the channels of trade with all types of merchandise feeling the effect," Mr. Whiting said.

Coffee and Sugar Seats.

Managers of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange have been petitioned by about a third of the membership to accept 12 seats now held in the treasury at $25,000 each. The matter has been referred to the law committee. Petitioners declared that with these seats removed from the market, current prices of memberships, which moved last week to a new record at $21,250, would find a higher level, especially since exchange is considering a plan to list and trade in the separate department securities of coffee, sugar and allied companies. Other members advocate retaining the seats now held by the treasury, but advancing the set price.

If Boulder Dam Were Destined to Be a Failure Power Trust Would Be Out Fighting for It Instead of Spending $400,000 for Its Defeat

IF BOULDER DAM were destined to be a failure the Power Trust would be working for its passage as hard as they are now working for its defeat.

Nothing would please the Power Trust better than a nice big governmental failure at Boulder Dam—a monumental flop.

If the dam were built and NOT paid for by sales of power, then the Power Trust could say:

"We told you so. Now do you want ANOTHER piece of governmental funny business like this?"

And, of course, nobody ever would want another. The people's water power resources would be turned over to the Power Trust in perpetuity on the Power Trust's own terms.

If Boulder Dam were a failure there would be an annual Boulder Dam deficit item in the Federal budget. That would be an annual opportunity for an annual "I told you so" sermon by the Power Trust. It would eliminate, extinguish and exterminate any proposal for the Government to meddle in hydro-electric power for all time.

This happy result would be produced at the expense of the taxpayers, without costing a cent of the money of the Power Trust, which is now spending several million dollars a year fighting against a measure which they prophesy will demonstrate the Government's inefficiency in the power business.

How can the Power Trust be so foolish?

Of course, it ISN'T.

The Power Trust knows that Boulder Dam is pointed for a blazing success that will electrify the nation.

The Power Trust knows it because of the brilliant and outstanding success of the two other great Western projects in which flood control, irrigation and water supply were combined with the generation and sale of electric power.

The Power Trust knows what has happened at Roosevelt Dam, built to protect and irrigate the Salt River Valley in Arizona. The whole project is run by the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association, whose manager is a distinguished engineer, J. B. Cragin.

According to Mr. Cragin, the dam's electric power is being sold for enough to pay off the Government in twenty years and in the same period also to pay off the association's bonds. After that the power revenues will be enough to give the valley farmers their water and electricity free and pay them an annual dividend of $10.00 an acre.

That's what happened when the Federal Government and the associated farmers took the wicked step of "going into the power business" in Arizona.

The Power Trust also knows that the government of the city of Los Angeles similarly went into the power business on the Coast. They built a world-famous aqueduct and over a stretch of 40 miles of desert and mountain they brought city water to Los Angeles from the High Sierras. On its way, they let the water run through power-houses to generate electricity, which the city distributes and sells to its fortunate inhabitants.

In 1927, according to the audit of Price-Waterhouse, the Los Angeles City Bureau of Power and Light made a profit of $3,500,000 while charging the lowest electricity rates in the country—for example, domestic current at a maximum of five cents a kilowatt hour for the smallest user.

Mayor Cryer, of Los Angeles, has recently made the public statement that the citizens of Los Angeles last year would have paid over $17,000,000 more for their water and their electricity if the city had charged them the rates collected by the private corporations selling water and power in San Francisco. The mayor said:

"The total savings realized by Los Angeles citizens in their water and electric rates, compared to the San Francisco rates, amounts to $17,438,323. This huge saving which remains in the pockets of our people amounts to $13.40 a year for every one of the 1,300,000 men, women and children in Los Angeles or $67 a year for the average family of five.

"Now it so happens that the total tax levy this year of the city of Los Angeles for the maintenance of the thirty departments included in the general city budget amounts to $17,170,000, or $268,323 less than this $17,438,323 saving to the people of Los Angeles in their water and electric bills."

That's what happened when a city government in California took the wicked step of "going into the power business."

Salt River Valley and Los Angeles represent the kind of "mistakes" which the Power Trust Senators want the dear people to avoid making by the construction of Boulder Dam.

The truth is that the Power Trust people have made up their minds that the country is NOT going to have another large scale, widely advertised demonstration of how cheaply electricity can be supplied to the people when generated and distributed on the basis of maximum service at cost and not on the basis of service at maximum cost.

There are fair and decent private operators of public utilities. But the industry is honeycombed with the extortion and graft levied on the people by profiteers who are moving heaven and earth to keep the facts from the public. The distribution of Boulder Dam power into the homes of the people by the city-owned plants of the Southwest will be a fact-finding operation whose news will reverberate through the land.

Are we passing a harsh judgment on the electric light and power industry, whose lobbyists, paid with the last of the $400,000 contributed by the Power Trust to beat Boulder Dam, today infest the halls and offices of Congress in a final desperate effort to choke this public measure?

Well, let us let them speak for themselves. Let us listen to what one of their propagandists says to another of their propagandists about the matter, not in public, but in a confidential letter unearthed by the Federal Trade Commission.

Speaking wholly in the privacy of the boudoir, J. B. Sheridan, Managing Director of the Missouri Committee on Public Utility Information, wrote to Thorne Browne, Managing Director of the Nebraska Section of the National Electric Light Association:

"What can we do when the financiers will inflate, overcapitalize, sell securities based on blue sky or hot air, and rates must be kept up to pay returns on said blue sky and hot air?

"The best public relations stuff in the world is a nice little reduction of rates. Do we get it? We do not. I know places where I believe a thirteen-cent top rate should be eight cents.

"Reconcile these if you can. I can't. I don't pretend to. There is nothing inherently sacred in private or public ownership. It all depends on which works out to the best for the public.

"If cities and states own and operate highways, schools, streets, sewers, water supply, why not electric and gas plants?

"I believe in private initiative, but I don't believe in subsidizing it 3 to 6 cents per kilowatt hour. The privately owned industry should be ashamed of itself to permit a municipally owned plant, operated on the square, to undersell it 4 to 6 to 7 cents per kilowatt hour. Don't say taxes. Taxes are less than $.0023 per kilowatt hour in this state.

"Mr. Browne, the bankers in the electrical industry do not appreciate what a fat thing they have had in the past seven years. They do not appreciate the enormous value of the monopoly feature.

"Until they appreciate and practice these things, I greatly fear that neither you nor I, nor anyone else, can help them very much."

Every intelligent Senator knows that, but for the Power Trust's political power, the Boulder Dam would pass without ten dissenting votes.

Every Senator knows that the Bill can be passed in a form to meet every demand of the President, the President-elect, the Secretary of Interior, the Director of the Budget, the people of the United States.

Every Senator knows that there is just one interest which the Bill CANNOT be changed to suit.

It cannot be made to conform with the interests or the views of the Power Trust and newspapers, lobbyists, and propagandists engaged in blazoning forth the Power Trust's views from one end of the country to the other.

Of course, maybe the Power Trust controls the Senate, too. But most of us are inclined to think the contrary.

DOCKET No. _____ EXHIBIT No. 2868
August 12, 1927. IN THE MATTER OF FTC 83
DATE 6/21/28 WITNESS J.B.Sheridan
REPORTER

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

Mr. Thorne Browne,
Middle West Division, N. E. L. A.
1819 O. Street,
Lincoln, Nebraska.

Dear Mr. Browne:

I did want to talk with you and Mr. Clapp but ate so very much, too much, at that big luncheon that I made myself sick. I apologise most abjectly. (Please consider the rest of this letter as confidential to you.)

I don't know that I can help you very much. What can we do when the financiers will inflate, overcapitalize, sell securities based on blue sky or hot air, and rates must be kept up to pay returns on said blue sky and hot air?

The best public relations stuff in the world is a nice little reduction of rates. Do we get it? We do not. I know places where I believe a 13 cent top rate should be 8 cents.

A municipally owned plant, city of 8,000, pays all indebtedness on plant without recourse to tax fund, lights white way streets, etc. without getting money therefore, but it is charged on the books and has a top rate of 8 cents per K.W.H., 4 cents power, B 50 miles away from A, 8,000 population, better industrial town than A, better power load, exacts a top rate of 15 cents per K.W.H., 8 cents for power.

Reconcile these if you can. I can't. I don't pretend to. There are no holes to be found in the municipal plant at A. As I see it there is nothing inherently sacred in private or public ownership. It all depends on which works out the best for the public. We talk a lot about what private ownership has done. Yet many municipal plants were built because no private parties would build them.

If cities and states own and operate highways, schools, streets, sewers, water supply, why not electric and gas plants?

To be logical, pricate ownership should at least have designed means to supply water.

I know places where public schools are anathema to the people holding with private schools.

I believe in private initiative, but I don't believe in subsidising it 3 to 6 cents per K.W.H. The privately owned industry should be ashamed of itself to permit a municipally owned plant, operated on the square, to undersell it 4 to 6 to 7 cents per K.W.H. Don't say taxes? Taxes are less than .0023 per K.W.H. in this State.

Mr. Browne, the bankers in the electrical industry do not appreciate what a fat thing they have had in the past 7 years. They do not appreciate the enormous value of the monopoly feature. They do not appreciate that electric light and power properties are not loaded dice to be employed in a craps game in which investors and the public are injured. Until they appreciate and practive these things, I greatly fear that neither you nor I, nor any one else, can halp them very much.

Things werel lively in this State until February, 1927. Then an unpopular railway company demands a huge val uation and increase of rates. Another company gets $13,000,000 added to its value and publicly promises not to ask for increase of rates. Three months later this company petitions for a "readjustment of rates" which in effect increases slightly the rates of 155,000 of 200,000 customers, then the controlling group sells out with a profit of from $12,000,000 to $14,000,000 on 60 per cent of the small issue of common stock.

Huge profit for the bankers, increase in rates for customers.

This was an ideal State for public utilities. What it will be in the future, I do not assume to forecast. No doubt 90 per cent of the business in the State is honest and rates correct. But the 10 per cent smears the 90 per cent.

Two years ago in Chicago, Davis and I asked that the industry declare itself in speculation. The hired publicity men had a fit. They'd lose their precious jobs. A year later Jim Davidson did say something against speculation before the Electrical Board of Trade, St. Louis, but when I asked him to repeat for publication he declined. Aylesworth said something. Sam Insull said something about it. But no one drove it home.

Unless the industry is honest and on the level it will killitself. Ninety per cent of it is honest enough. It must be 100 per cent honest. And it must come to recognize that public utilities are not private dice,or playing cards,or chips in a poker game, but public trusts to be administered carefully,cautiously, economically, with the interests of investors in fixed securities and public, which are identical, coming before profits oncomron stock or upon inflation of securities.

What's the remedy? Why, hang the offenders high as Haman upon the gibbet of publicity. Tell the world what they are doing. Admit your own sins and repent.

Most people will say that I am a damn fool for this but I don't believe that you will.

J.B.Sheridan

THIS letter, one of the official exhibits from the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the power trust, tells what one of the power propagandists really thinks of the business he is in.

In January, 1927, the State propaganda directors received a desperate telegraphic appeal from the power trust headquarters in New York, the National Electric Light Association, urging them to mobilize public opinion against public ownership of utilities as represented by the Boulder Dam bill, then pending in both House and Senate.

J. B. Sheridan, head of the Missouri propaganda, found it rough going. He could not rally his State against the principle of public ownership because privately owned public utility corporations in Missouri were robbing the public too brazenly.

J. B. SHERIDAN, of Missouri, head of one of the 28 State public utility propaganda organizations mobilized in 1927 to fight the Boulder Dam bill. In the above letter Sheridan gives the "low-down" on the people who employ him.

So Mr. Sheridan here unburdens his heart to Thorne Browne, his fellow press agent in Nebraska, telling of the difficulty in representing an octopus as a household pet:

"I don't know that I can help you very much. What can we do when the financiers will inflate, over-capitalize, sell securities based on blue sky or hot air, and rates must be kept up to pay returns on said blue sky and hot air?

"Unless the industry is honest and on the level it will kill itself.

"What's the remedy? Why, hang the offenders high as Haman on the gibbet of publicity. Tell the world what they are doing. Admit your own sins and repent.

"Most people will say that I am a damn fool for this, but I don't believe that you will.

Then to the Metropolitan Club to a reception Ray Long held for William J. Locke, the English novelist, who is distinguished, as might be expected, by his supreme simplicity, and a notable group there. Then to my lodgings to sit at my typewriter overwhelmed by an inadequacy.

In the evening to a play and saw Ralph Barton, the artist, who has finished a history book of America and sold his Paris home in rue Nicoli to live on the Normandy countryside. And on the way home picked up Earl Carroll and Dorothy Knapp and carried them off for a flagon of orange juice. Then to bed.

Earl Carroll, incidentally, has a microphone arrangement in a private room back stage of his theater which records the emotional reactions of the audience to his show. He is able to loll in a comfortable chair and receive the hot and cold attitudes of audiences toward his players and their lines.

A retired merchant with a modest fortune is acting as nightwatchman around building construction. His evenings had been spent sitting at home, puffing a pipe, watching people pass by and reading until late into the night. He discovered he could pursue the same formula on a nightwatch job and be paid for it.

On Sixth avenue in the 30's are innumerable fur shops which remain open until midnight and after and whose windows are filled with marked down furs—from the big minks for waddling ladies to the fox neckpiece for flappers. Each shop seems to go from one type of sale to another and late at night they are quite popular with wistful young ladies who pilot their boy friends there—hopefully, of course.

Furriers are frequently tricked by professional shoplifting ladies who come into their shops wearing imitation furs and exchange them for the real thing. Only recently on Fifth avenue a woman tried on a Russian sable coat worth $28,000 and while the salesman was off guard a moment walked out. She left a coat worth $350. And if I were a fur dealer that would certainly make me mad.

ONCE OVERS
By J. J. Mundy

IS THERE someone in your crowd who is being left out because he will not do some of the things that the rest of the bunch do?

He is in for a good time, kept within certain limits.

But he has a limit beyond which he will not go.

He is not disagreeable about it in his refusal to participate.

But because he will not go the limit, you have dropped him.

If you would think of this man sensibly, you would not cut him.

You know of excesses in which you took part, which you have regretted since.

You did not overstep because you wanted to do so, but you wanted to show yourself a good fellow.

You would respect yourself a lot more just now if you had had stamina enough to stop when you knew you should have stopped.

Isn't this other man entitled to much credit which you are withholding?

He did not give in for the sake of winning favor.

He had a certain principle in that direction and he stood by his colors.

Why should you make it harder for him?

He has struggled enough to maintain his position against your efforts to have him abandon it.
